Ex-Red Walsh Claims He 'Exposed' Norman

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says Pat Walsh, a one-time Communist, said today he was the undercover agent who in 1950 told the RCMP that Canadian diplomat Herbert Norman had been a member of the Canadian Communist party 10 years earlier.

'HOTTEST ISSUE'

The Norman case is the "hottest election issue in eastern Canada today," Times Ottawa correspondent Victor J. Mackie reports in an extensive dispatch on Page 21.

Mr. Walsh said information furnished by him to "my good friend" Robert Morris, counsel for the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee, was used by the sub-committee to bring charges of Communist associations against Mr. Norman. The newspaper quotes Mr. Walsh as saying he could not have been wrong in his identification of Mr. Norman, who committed suicide in Cairo.

RCMP Retracted Norman Report —Case of 'Mistaken Identity'

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said today the RCMP later in 1950 had branded the agent's report as being a case of "mistaken identity or unfounded rumor by an unidentified sub-source."

Question of Two Reports Puzzling

Though the original RCMP report was made public by Mr. Morris, the follow-up one denying the first was never released until Wednesday night. There was no indication in Mr. Pearson's statement that the sub-committee had possession of the second report as well as the original.

Mr. Pearson's statements were included in a text of a telegram to the editor of the Montreal Gazette and issued by the external affairs department. The statements take issue with comments written by Arthur Blakely, the Gazette's Ottawa correspondent.

Gas Bombs Rout Paris Strikers

PARIS (CP)—A battle between striking rail and subway workers and police broke out today on the boulevard in front of the transport ministry.

The workers went on a two-day strike Wednesday for higher wages. Some of the strikers were drifting back to their jobs today.

The clash was the first violence in the strike of rail, subway and bus employees, which has slowed but hardly stopped normal business.

Russia Explodes 'One of Largest' Nuclear Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government said today Russia exploded a nuclear weapon on Tuesday which was "one of the largest thus far in the current Soviet series."

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said this was the fifth in a series since April 3.

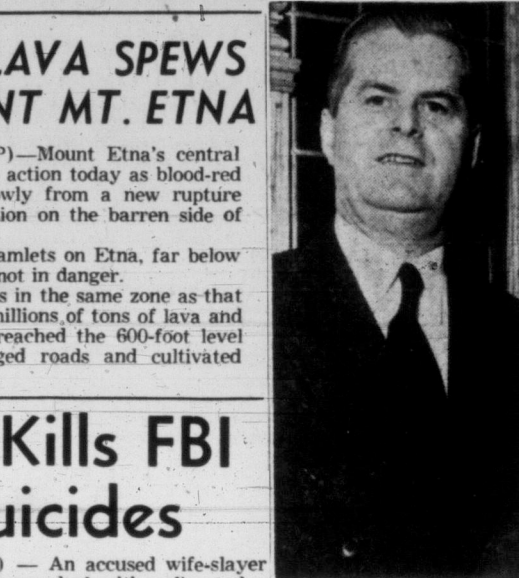

This was the 11th test explosion, reported by the AEC since the Russians began a test series last August.

QUEBEC NEXT?

Premier W. A. C. Bennett revealed today he will confer with Premier Duplessis of Quebec Monday and Tuesday.

The platform was discussed at a morning meeting of the party's executive committee, headed by Solon Low, national leader.

Other members of the committee include Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta, Rev. E. G. Hansell, SC national president, and several cabinet ministers in the Alberta and B.C. Social Credit governments.

The policies went before an afternoon meeting of the party's national council for final approval.

It was learned that Premier Bennett will leave here following today's meeting for a visit to Montreal Sunday and a talk with Quebec Premier Duplessis in Quebec City Monday and Tuesday.

SOME 400 delegates were in Toronto for the meetings. Attorney-General Bonner of B.C. will be chairman of the public rally tonight at Massey Hall.

The party held 15 or 265 seats in the House of Commons at dissolution—all in Alberta and B.C. It plans more than 160 candidates for the June 10 election.

Neither thought their rally message historic but predicted the meeting would put the Socialists on the Ontario map.

One thing tonight's rally will not introduce is a campaign song for the march to Ottawa. "We've been corny but not quite corny enough to have a ship would be a step away from Socialism.

It also took a backhand swipe at the Canada Council, a favorite whipping boy for the party.

"Home ownership is a basic factor in the building of a national character—and character is at least as important as a national culture," the letter said.

SWANK BAND
Like the official party program that will be unveiled tonight, the entertainment has something for everyone.

Moxie Whitney's swank society orchestra will play and the featured singer will be Lorraine McAllister, who is equally at home with hillbilly or pop songs.

Also working hard on speeches are Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta and National Leader Solon Low.

Secret Session At Toronto Drafts Election Platform

TORONTO (CP) — Social Credit party leaders in closed sessions today hammered out the party's campaign platform for the June 10 federal election.

Although public announcement was withheld until a mass rally here tonight, it was reported that one plank calls for pensions of $100 a month to Canadians at age 70. The present pension is $40 a month and it is scheduled to go to $46 July 1.

The platform was discussed at a morning meeting of the party's executive committee, headed by Solon Low, national leader.

2nd Courtenay Parent Charged With Keeping Child From School

SCHOOL BOARD officials of District 71 that Nancy Sinks, an elementary school pupil here, had attended school only 74 days since last September.

Test date the prosecution is using is last March 5 when Nancy was absent.

The Sinks live on Arden Road, too far from the school for a child to walk, the defence claims. Mr. Sinks said he was ill on the date in question and could not drive Nancy.

Appearing for the Crown is H. S. MacIvor.

The hearing is before Magistrate John Ryland, who made a historic decision last week that if a child can be properly educated at home there is no obligation to send the child to a school. The act allows this loophole.

BIRDS GIVE BIRD TO 'DIRTY TRICK'

Gull Majority Undismayed By Sonic Warfare Threat

By Times Seagull Editor

Victoria's seagull colony today turned an indifferent beak to threats of "sonic warfare" to drive them away from their natural habitat, viz., the garbage scows.

Of 82 gulls interviewed in a Times poll, only four expressed any real concern over a report received by city council public works committee Wednesday, suggesting loud-speakers be placed on the scows to broadcast seagull cries of alarm, thus scaring the birds away from the garbage.

The other 78 had various opinions of the plan. "None thought it would be a real danger, although all agreed it had the earmarks of a 'dirty trick'."

QUEEN GIVES MAUNDY MONEY

ST. ALBANS, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip today handed out "Maundy money," the traditional royal Easter offering to aged poor folk, at the 900-year-old abbey here.

The custom dates back to the middle ages when every Maundy Thursday the sovereign distributed money, food and clothing to as many old men and old women as the monarch had years of age.

Seems th' seagulls will hev a choice when th' garbage scows git them new noise makers. It'll be soup or sonic.

have any bearing on Beacon Hill gulls.

A seagull questioned at the city garbage wharf expressed scant interest in the plan.

"As I understand it, the city council will be asked to provide music on the garbage scows," he said.

"The music suggested is the seagull warning cry, which is, to a seagull, a most interesting chromatic exercise."

"However, I cannot see the need for this expense, as seagulls are quite capable of producing their own warning cries."

"But, not being a taxpayer, the matter doesn't concern me one way or the other."

The only note of indignation was sounded by a rather ancient seagull, a resident of these parts for many years, and the dean of the HMC Dockyard colony.

"There is base ingratitude here," he said. "Gull and fledgling, for high unto I don't know how many years I have been doing my part to keep the harbors clean. So have all the other gulls of my acquaintance. Now they are proposing to try to keep us off the garbage scows."

Even this ancient, and rather indignant, gull, refused to be worried. "It won't work," he said. "Seagulls are used to weird noises, being great hand at creating weird noises themselves."

One of the gulls interviewed said only: "Eh? What's that you say?"

He is a herring gull who is hard of hearing.

The three gulls actively worried about the project all had the same reason.

"When the city fathers find the seagull warning won't work," they said, "they may decide to play Elvis Presley recordings instead."

Quivering from beak to tail feather, they flew away.

'Painless' Merger Sketched by Ash

No Municipality Would Assume Debt of Another, States Reeve

A "painless" plan for consolidation of Greater Victoria — with no municipality assuming the debt or development of another — was charted by Saanich Reeve

Arthur Ash Wednesday night. He told a joint meeting of Greater Victoria Lions Clubs, outlying municipalities fear they would be called upon to assume the debt of Victoria, in event of amalgamation.

"These municipalities with sewers, drains and highways completed resist the idea of providing these services to other areas which are not so fully developed.

Solution, he said, would be for the municipalities to pool costly assets which cannot be liquidated — streets, sewers, sidewalks, street lighting and parks, the arena and the public library, to name a few.

These would be administered on a joint basis.

Financed by Common Bond Issues

Where services were lacking in an area, they could be financed by common bond issues with the debt falling upon the area receiving the benefits.

"Many of these services would be undertaken by local improvement by-laws. This would enable us to borrow at a low interest rate as a large united municipality."

Reeve Ash recalled the statement of Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black recently: "The only sensible solution to the Greater Victoria problem is complete amalgamation."

The reeve felt if Victoria district amalgamated it should have its own private charter combining the best features of the new Municipal Act and the Vancouver City Charter.

Consolidation could be started by establishing a special intermunicipal committee in co-operation with the department of municipal affairs.

The argument that taxes would be increased by amalgamation was disproved when

Ottawa annexed surrounding areas. Except for the demand for local improvements, taxes would have been lower, the reeve said. (He is a former Ottawa alderman.)

Youth Induced Boys to Steal Goods for Him

A Victoria youth who induced a pair of juveniles to steal for him was sentenced to one day imprisonment and one year's rigid probation when he faced two charges of breaking, entering and theft in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday.

Victor Rowe, 18, 478 Gorge East, pleaded guilty to the charges laid after break-ins March 2 and March 23 at Bligh's Corner General Store, Metchosin.

Court was told Rowe acted as look-out while the two juveniles entered the store the first time to take small items of merchandise.

SUSPENDED

The second time Rowe again acted as look-out while one of the juveniles entered the premises.

Rowe was given a suspended sentence on the first charge and Magistrate A. I. Thomas imposed a stiff probation requirement.

On the second charge, being a second offence, the one day imprisonment was set.

Sentence was imposed after receipt of a probation report on Rowe.

'Boil Water', Japan Warns In Nuclear 'Contamination'

TOKYO (Reuters)—The Japanese government said today Japan is "rapidly becoming contaminated" by radioactive dust from Soviet nuclear tests.

It broadcast a general warning to the people to beware of possible radioactive contamination. It told housewives to boil drinking water and thoroughly wash all vegetables and fruit. Farmers were told to pay special attention to well water.

The warning followed a weather bureau report that heavy and continuing radioactive fall-out from recent Soviet tests has been registered throughout Japan over the last two days.

In the last two weeks United States and British authorities have announced at least four Russian nuclear test explosions. The Japan Council Against Atomic and Hydrogen Bombs has protested to the Soviet Embassy here against the tests.

IF OTHERS DO

Ivan Filovich Chernov, second secretary of the embassy, said Russia is ready to suspend tests if other countries will do so. The Japanese government released details of a procedure it has suggested for prohibiting test explosions "through practical and effective measures." They were contained in observations on a joint Canadian-Japanese-Norwegian proposal in the United Nations calling for prior registration of nuclear weapon tests with the UN.

The government suggested that the UN's scientific committee on the effects of atomic radiation—or a newly-established nuclear test explosion control committee—should first study whether it is possible to detect all nuclear test explosions.

Should it find such detection is possible, then test explosions should be prohibited in accordance with a future recommendation of the UN General Assembly or Security Council. Neither body has yet made such a recommendation.

Judge Reserves Decision on CBC Exemption Plea

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Supreme Court of Ontario Wednesday reserved decision on a motion that would exempt the CBC from prosecution under the federal Lord's Day Act.

The move followed a day-long legal argument.

The motion, presented by CBC Counsel Walter B. Williston, asked that the charges against the CBC be quashed on grounds that the CBC is a crown agent, and not subject to any act unless it is specifically named in that act.

The CBC has been charged with violating the Lord's Day Act by broadcasting on Sundays. Also charged with violating the act are three Toronto newspapers—The Globe and Mail, The Telegram and The Star—and Toronto radio station CKY.

A hearing of these charges Wednesday was adjourned for a week in another court by Magistrate T. S. Elmore pending decision on the CBC motion.

Mr. Williston was opposed in his legal arguments by C. F. H. Carson, special Crown attorney appointed for the case.

Mr. Williston also argued that if the CBC were convicted and fined for violating the Lord's Day Act, it "would be taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another" of the Crown.

DARTMOUTH, England (AP)—Allan Villiers, skipper of the vessel, Mayflower II, replica of the Pilgrim Fathers' ship, was anchored in a dreary mist at the mouth of the Dart River today, waiting the next moves in its projected trip to the United States.

The little wooden sailing ship was towed Wednesday night from Brixham, where it was built, on its way to Plymouth, where the official start of the trans-Atlantic voyage is to be made.

From Plymouth, Devon, she will sail for Plymouth, Mass., where the Pilgrim Fathers landed, by chance, 336 years ago.

There was uncertainty today as to when the next leg of the journey would be made because Cmdr.

Choristers Impress With Sacred Music

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Episodes of a divine tragedy found full and magnificent expression in Wednesday night's performance of Bach's "Passion According to St. John" in Christ Church Cathedral.

As a musical embodiment of the Easter season, it would be difficult to find a more ideal medium.

The manner of its presentation by director Graham Steed, Victoria Choral Society ensemble of 75 voices, 20-piece orchestra and six soloists, was impressive and moving.

SPIRITUAL

For the audience, seated in the softly lit, vaulted cathedral nave, the poignantly beautiful music coming from behind and above in the west gallery, was deeply spiritual in its effect.

Only three of a fine group of soloists were stationed at the chancel steps. These were tenor Edward Oldfield, the narrator; Dr. Harry Johns, bass, who sang the recitative part of Pilate, and John Bray, baritone, singing Jesus—also in recitative.

From the gallery, one heard the soprano, Audrey Saville, and contralto—and baritone—voices of Eleanor Duff and Derek MacDermott singing—and singing well—the several inspired and famous arias. Visually this stark simplicity served to emphasize the greatness of the work and the events it commemorates.

Mr. Steed particularly, and the whole ensemble, deserve the grateful thanks of all who were present for an imaginative, tender and worthy performance.

The Sound Rule

FEW CANADIANS HAVE MADE a larger contribution to the nation's welfare than Mr. C. D. Howe. But Mr. Howe also makes mistakes from time to time and one of them has lately been aired in Parliament.

Before he died last year the late Sir James Dunn appointed his friend, Mr. Howe, as one of the executors of his estate. Among the assets in the estate was a huge block of shares in the Algoma Steel Company. Thus Mr. Howe became an important figure in that company, without any personal interest of his own.

Mr. Howe is not a director of Algoma. He merely manages, with other executors, the interests of Sir James' heirs. Mr. Howe's influence was soon felt, however, in this giant corporation; for he told Parliament the other day that he had been instrumental in preventing the sale of a large part of the company's stock to undesirable interests. This, he thought, was a valuable service to the nation.

Perhaps it was, but this is not the point of the argument advanced in Parliament by the CCF. It holds that Mr. Howe, as a powerful cabinet minister, should never be involved with a firm so large that it is almost bound, at some time or another, to be involved with the Government.

The only sound rule for cabinet ministers is to resign company directorships when they take office, even if this often involves financial sacrifices. The same rule, for the same good reasons, must apply to an estate like that of Sir James when that estate is such an important factor in Algoma's affairs.

The integrity of Mr. Howe has never been doubted by the vast majority of Canadians. His honor, as well as his organizing genius, has long been an ornament of our public life. But he is very unwise to leave himself open to the attack of the CCF by serving what he considers the interests of his dead friend's heirs, however innocent that service may be.

Now that his position in this matter has been questioned, Mr. Howe's friends must hope that he will retire from any connection with Algoma—not because he has done anything wrong but because he has exposed himself and the Government unnecessarily to criticism. Though it is partisan criticism, timed for election purposes, it appears to be valid in this case.

Another matter falling under the same rules of conduct has arisen in the case of Mr. John D. Barrington, president and managing director of Polymer Corporation, who has recently been appointed a director of McIntyre Porcupine Gold Mines.

Polymer Corporation is owned by the Government of Canada. The president of that organization now accepts a directorship with a private company which is reported to receive subsidies of some $500,000 a year from the Government.

Mr. Stanley Knowles, of the CCF, is quite right, we believe in attacking these arrangements. The honor of Mr. Barrington is not in question, but the propriety of his position—a public servant joining a private company subsidized by the Government—is highly questionable to say the least of it.

Mr. Howe says he was not consulted about Mr. Barrington's appointment to the directorate of McIntyre Porcupine and that the matter "is still under consideration." It should not require more than a moment's consideration for Mr. Howe to see that Mr. Barrington should be asked to resign immediately from a private directorship.

As Mr. Howe is responsible for the Polymer Corporation, the property of the Canadian people, and as Mr. Barrington is his servant, the minister can quickly cancel the existing arrangements. He should do so.

Let's Protect

FIRES WHICH DESTROYED Government House and the Birdcage have led to public insistence that our remaining buildings of history and tradition be adequately protected.

Particular mention has been made of Craigdarroch Castle and Helmsken House. Craigdarroch School could be included in a list of many others, some publicly, many privately, owned.

An intense interest in these old buildings and a desire to see them more fully safeguarded against fire will be of little value if it rises and dies as quickly as a flame. Some permanent arrangements must be made.

Perhaps, as a first step, competent authorities, preferably led by the provincial architect, should make a detailed list of structures which need special protection. If they are in private hands—as many are—the owners should be invited to discuss methods of assuring their preservation. Then the issue might profitably be turned over to the provincial public works department, or some suitable provincial agency, to act in co-operation with local authorities in devising the most effective safety measures.

It is admittedly late for such action, but if the capital wishes to preserve what remains of its past in the way of important buildings, some program must be laid down that will continue in effect when the present wave of public interest subsides.

Will We Be Double-Taxed?

WITH THE ENTRY OF PRINCE Edward Island the required conditions for federal participation in a national hospital insurance plan have been fulfilled. There will be some delay, of course, while several of the six provinces concerned create their local insurance establishments, and it may be 18 months or more before the program is fully operative.

British Columbia and Saskatchewan, already having their own insurance systems, will be among the first provinces to reap the benefit of the federal plan. In British Columbia, about one half of the hospital insurance costs now borne by provincial taxpayers will be assumed by the Federal Government. This, of course, will not relieve the people of the costs. As Canadian taxpayers they will continue to pay for hospital insurance, and perhaps pay somewhat more proportionately to most other provinces since this is a wealthy part of Canada.

This fact poses a problem for Premier Bennett. If he cuts our provincial taxes by the amount now to be contributed by Ottawa, the costs of insurance borne by each taxpayer will remain fairly close to what they have been. But if he continues to collect all of the special two per cent insurance tax and uses it for other purposes, the inauguration of federal insurance will mean merely that we will be paying half as much again in taxes as we should be. We will be paying the full provincial tax plus the federal costs.

Mr. Bennett has one other alternative. He could add substantially to the benefits provided by hospital insurance in B.C. and thus use up the surplus provincial tax contribution. But it is a moot question just how much taxation the people of the province will tolerate.

If this is an opportunity to reduce provincial levies most people will be in favor of seizing it. In any case the B.C. two per cent tax was imposed for a specific purpose. If half the cost of that program is taken over by the Federal Government, it seems logical to return the unused portion to the people.

Canada Council

BY AND LARGE THE GOVERNMENT seems to have chosen excellent directors from coast to coast for the Canada Council, to aid Canadian culture.

In Mr. Brooke Claxton it has found a man of extraordinary organizing ability and a deep and sincere interest in the arts. His particular talents equip him well for the post of chairman.

He, the council and Canada are extremely fortunate in having as vice-chairman Most Rev. Georges-Henri Levesque of Laval University. Father Levesque has earned recognition as one of the finest minds in French Canada. A brilliant lecturer, outstanding scholar and stout champion of liberties—he has fought Mr. Duplessis and the reactionary elements of his own province unceasingly—his name lends lustre to the directorate.

Satisfaction will be general over the choice of director, Dr. A. W. Trueman. After university careers at Manitoba and New Brunswick he has proved his capacities as the highly successful chief of the National Film Board. While directors will set policy, he is the man responsible for administration—a field in which he already has shown his strength.

The Canada Council is composed of outstanding figures in our national life. But it will be conceded that Mr. M. J. Coldwell's criticism is not without point if his statements are correct. Mr. Coldwell says that the newly appointed group does not include a representative of agriculture or of labor. Unless the C.C.F. leader is in error, this is a deficiency which the Government should make up when given the opportunity to appoint replacements.

Havoc in Massey Hall

TONIGHT, says Mr. Bennett, Canada will enter one of the most important moments of its history. Social Credit will open in the big time of effects, technical and the wide screen at Massey Hall. The occasion, I agree, is highly important, but not for the reason Mr. Bennett has in mind. He is thinking of the long-postponed march on Ottawa. Anyone who knows even a little about the history of Canada (a subject not included in the Social Credit curriculum) will be thinking of more serious possibilities.

Hutchison

A first sight we shall observe in Toronto only the emergence of Canada's first political party dedicated completely to soft money.

Such phenomena have arisen repeatedly in the United States, always in the debt-ridden west, as a protest against the financial power of the east. We have escaped them, so far, as anything more than a tiny splinter without influence in Parliament. (The CCF, it should be noted, began in the west as a radical left-wing party of protest but it never stood for soft money.)

A soft-money party, determined to make itself by breaking the currency, was to be expected, once the Government began, however imperfectly, to defend the currency. And once the Canadian people understand what the soft-money party is about I am convinced that they will reject it.

NO, the immediate danger is not that Social Credit will elect many members to the next Parliament and do grave damage to the currency—it doesn't expect to—but that it will splinter the opposition vote, bedevil the two-party system and do great damage to the nation's coherence.

Things have been going so well with us lately that we seldom pause to realize how difficult it is to keep the nation of Canada coherent.

It is split into at least five separate regions of economic interest, race and history. Only a great national political party, with strength in all these regions, can possibly hold the nation in unity.

Lacking that instrument, operated with high skill, we would soon find ourselves facing a Parliament of at least five warring factions, perhaps more. No stable government would be possible, no national policy enforceable and in the long run no national state viable.

THIS arrangement is indeed so difficult to erect and maintain that seldom, if ever, have two parties been able to achieve it at the same time in our generation. The Liberal Party may be good or bad—a matter of opinion—but since 1935 it has been the only national party. The fifty-one Conservative seats in the last Parliament of 265 members could not be called a national party.

But the Conservatives alone have the makings of a second national party and I for one hope they will make the most of them in June. The overriding question in the election is whether the two-party system can be restored to something like health and working order; or whether our political system is to be further pulverized, bedeviled and weakened.

TONIGHT'S meeting in Toronto is important as perhaps indicating whether we are moving toward the second alternative. For that is the only alternative that Social Credit proposes. It is out to smash the Opposition now and tackle the Government four years from now. Its highest hope this year is to fracture the two-party system, to make any national party impossible and thus to make stable government impossible.

That statement is not a personal opinion from an opponent of Social Credit. It is the statement of Premier Bennett himself.

When he boasts that the Liberal Party will lose a "minimum of fifty seats" he is boasting that there can be no majority in the next Parliament. He is exulting in stalemate. He is proclaiming the doctrine of chaos. He is crying havoc.

WHAT else would you expect? It is only in a state of stalemate, chaos and havoc that Social Credit can even begin to make any progress at the June poll. It can feed only on confusion. It can advance only through the ruins of the two-party system.

Mr. Bennett does not deny that. He glories in it. He proclaims the death of the Conservative Party and the approaching death of the Liberal Party regularly once a week. No doubt he will pronounce their doom over the microphones of Massey Hall tonight.

But if the Canadian people have one dominant national instinct it is the instinct of stability, the hatred of confusion, the horror of a French-style parliament at the mercy of shifting cliques and temporary cabals. They experienced that evil only twice, after the elections of 1921 and 1925, and the experience was burned into their memory. In every other election since Confederation they gave a majority to one party or another and enabled it to govern, so that by and large we have had excellent government, under either party.

MR. Bennett thinks he can alter or confuse that instinct by a kind of Hollywood premiere in Toronto. After his easy triumphs over a splintered opposition in British Columbia he forgets that he is now playing in the big league, where the rules are rather different.

As Our Readers See It

Death Penalty

An article in the Victoria Daily Times says: "The Death Penalty. The Duncan Killers Fight for Life."

Men and women may call it what they like, but to justify the death penalty is to justify legal murder . . . and this is not Christianity.

If men and women had studied Occultism, Theosophy or Metaphysics they would realize that to liberate the personality of a so-called murderer, who may have been obsessed by a malicious or jealous entity upon the lower spiritual plane after death, by hanging, or other ways, was to fill him with the spirit of hatred, revenge or other negative thoughts, to influence other sensitive individuals by inciting them to similar deeds.

This recent case was a young man, who was sentenced to be hanged in B.C. A man who had been drinking heavily for some days, and in an advanced state of drunkenness, who had been separated from his wife and child after four years of marriage, shot and killed the man who had been his friend on New Year's Day, because he found him with his arm around his wife in a moment of extreme provocation, and under the influence of jealousy. What normal sane man could blame him? We are all God's children, all spiritual beings, whether in the body or out of it, and God gave us light and understanding, wisdom and tolerance. We have been preaching Christianity for the past 2,000 years. How about putting it into practice? We do not know Christ if He is not within our hearts. What did our Greatest Teacher and Master say? "Thou shalt not kill." So I say that legalized murder is wrong and un-Christian . . . in spite of what all speakers and ministers say or believe.

Unnecessary Waste

As soon as I heard on the radio of the fire at Government House, I immediately thought this expensive place will not be rebuilt.

My thoughts were as suddenly shattered when the next news was "Government House Will Be Rebuilt," says Premier Bennett. I immediately saw red, as red as the headlines of the Victoria Daily Times of Monday's paper. Then I went on to read something I had forgotten, and I guess many more have "That on March 17, St. Patrick's day, by the way, in 1943, the members in the Provincial House debated for more than an hour before voting down a resolution of the late Ernest Winch that the residence be turned into an Old Peoples Home, and that Mr. Winch was supported by Mr. A. Mrs. Dorothy Steeves, CCF for North Vancouver, who said Government House was serving no great social need."

What a great pity it is that Mr. Winch is not here now to fight for the right of the people who give their votes, and expect and demand as I now do, that every member of the Opposition demand their right to speak on this terribly serious and important matter. No Premier has the right to say the place will be immediately rebuilt and ready for the Centennial without the sanction of the people. All members in the House are the servants of the people, and the people are not looking for dictatorship in British Columbia by any one person, and they should all stand on their "hind legs and kick."

There is absolutely no need for a Government House in Victoria at all. Royalty, which Mr. Bennett possibly has his eyes on can stay at the Empress, and any other so called personages can do the same.

Religion in Schools

In your issue of the 11th inst. it is reported that an Anglican Church cleric wishes to have religious teaching in the schools, which teaching he would naturally want to be of his particular belief or teaching.

From the report it would appear that the reason for wanting to increase education expenses and school taxes is indirectly to find jobs, and thus provide inducement, for young men to enter the ministry of that church, by increasing eventual attendance at church.

As many parents of school children do not believe the tales taught as part of religious instruction, such parents would feel obliged to put their own point of view before their children. There would thus be the likelihood of the givers of religious instruction being considered as teachers of untruths, which would be damaging to their prestige.

The best is to continue to keep controversial teaching of professional religions out of the schools.

FREETHINKER.

Tribute

I, too, would like to pay my humble tribute to John Hart, a fine gentleman and a great premier whom we shall always remember. Your Mr. Gibbens gave us a warm and colorful account of the funeral and conveyed much of its pathos in clear vivid phrases that made the service in the old cathedral come to life.

In Mr. Hart the province has lost one of its noblest and most kindly public servants and he will take his place among the really great Canadians of the century.

FROM WASHINGTON

By STEWART ALSOP

The Mysterious Pellets

A BITTER and significant row is now going on in the Pentagon about the role of basic scientific research in the defence of the United States. To the casual observer, the fight might seem just another teapot tempest stirred up by the vain and temperamental scientists. In fact, the issue in dispute has a real bearing on the whole national future, as the story of Dr. Van Valkenburg and his plastic pellets may serve to suggest. Dr. Van Valkenburg is a young scientist, until recently with the rather obscure University of Utah. Last year, he got a Defence Department grant of a few thousand dollars for an odd little experiment which might appear to have precious little to do with defence.

Dr. Van Valkenburg used a shaped charge technique to fire plastic pellets at constantly increasing speeds into wax targets. As the velocity increased, the pellets, as might be expected, simply penetrated deeper and deeper into the wax.

Then, when Dr. Van Valkenburg fired a pellet into the wax at the remarkable speed of 8,500 miles an hour, a queer thing happened.

Surface Explosion

Instead of penetrating deeply into the wax, the pellet exploded, making a large crater on the surface of the wax. He tried it again, and always, at speeds over 8,500 miles an hour, the same thing happened, for reasons which must remain mysterious to the layman. The importance of Dr. Van Valkenburg's little experiment may seem equally mysterious. And yet it might—just might—change the history of the human race.

The world is about to enter the age of the ballistic missile. The Soviets are testing medium range ballistic missiles at the remarkable rate of five a month. It is hoped that the U.S. will fire a test version of the very long range intercontinental missile, known as "Atlas" this year.

The ballistic missile has been known as the "ultimate weapon" because, until Dr. Van Valkenburg came along, there seemed no conceivable defence against it. Atlas, for example, will travel half round the world with its nuclear warhead at a speed of 16,000 miles an hour, or thereabouts. Trying to bring it down with another missile would be about as futile as shooting at a very high flying goose with a twenty-two rifle.

The way to bring down a goose, of course, is to shoot it, in range, with a shotgun. Dr. Van Valkenburg's experiment suggests that a ballistic missile could be brought down in rather the same way.

Another missile or a satellite vehicle could be exploded electronically in the path of an oncoming ballistic missile. A fragment of the exploded missile or satellite, coming in contact with the oncoming missile at speeds far greater than the magic 8,500 miles an hour, would have the mysterious explosive effect. It might thus be expected to explode or cripple the ballistic missile.

Pure Science

The Air Research and Development Command is proceeding with experiments along this line, which are of course highly secret. But Dr. Van Valkenburg's original experiment was not secret at all, simply because it was an experiment in pure scientific research, with no foreseeable military application at all.

Dr. Van Valkenburg's little experiment, which may have such far-reaching consequences, thus illustrates the real meaning of the row in the Pentagon.

Secretary of Defence Charles E. Wilson prides himself on being a practical man, and, as he has said, he sees no reason why the Defence Department should fool around with finding out "why the grass is green," or such nonsense. Defence should concern itself only with research leading to practical military applications.

To this end, Wilson has appointed Frank D. Newbury, a septuagenarian engineer who shares his views, as overlord of all Defence Department research and development. The appointment has already led to a major clash between Newbury and the Defence Science Board and the resignation of one distinguished scientist. Other scientists working for the Defence Department are unhappy to the point of despair.

Their despair is understandable if one ponders the tale of Dr. Van Valkenburg's pellets. For virtually all the great advances in the terrible new weapons, from the atomic bomb on up, have derived directly from "basic scientific" research. Modern weaponry is not, alas, as simple as tooling up a new General Motors model.

Little Persistence

HE'S six years old with the face of an angel and the persistence of the devil.

Right now, he's a charming little innocent. Look, he's sitting in a home-made tepee in a corner of the sunny field that edges the ravine.

The poles of his tepee are the poles his father uses for training runner beans in summer. Against all rules, he's taken them from the shed by the kitchen garden. With the secateurs filched from the hook inside the basement door, he's cut himself a lot of fir branches to make the walls of his tepee.

There he sits in his little bower of green, and looks over the misty blue of the ravine where the maples are coming into blossom and the springtime creek is rushing over the rounded boulders.

Isn't it a charming scene full of trailing glory?

Because it's spring and lovely weather, his mother's left the housework and is going through the orchard to have a little time with her youngest child. What a darling little thing, she thinks. What a lovely noble brow. What clear blue eyes. What lovely thoughts he must be having. Give them beautiful surroundings in their early years and their thoughts will be beautiful!

"What are you doing?" she asks with casual curiosity.

"Just finkin'!" comes the answer.

"What are you thinking about?"

"Blood," he says with monosyllabic grimace.

"It's interesting, isn't it?" she says, picking up the remnants of her rose dreams.

So they sit in the sun and talk about blood. They talk about how the cat likes to lick up blood from the dish the liver-lay-in. They talk about little Johnnie So-and-So who had a nose-bleed and "it bled right on his shoes." And that's the keyword. "Shoes." For this morning started badly with a battle over shoes. He'd wanted oxblood polish on his brand new scampers. But Mummy had said that oxblood was the wrong color. It would have to be the dark tan, she said.

"I want oxblood," he had said and stalked up to the sunny field.

His mother had thought the subject was closed. For her littlest angel the subject had not been closed at all.

"Oh dear," she says to herself with the sunshine warm on her back and the beauty of the ravine spread below, "I can see his point. Oxblood is such a lovely name. If I were four and a little boy, I'd be thrilled to death to go to town with oxblood on my shoes. Not quite as good as Johnnie's nose-bleed but the next best thing, I guess."

"But I give in over this. I'm just storing up trouble for the future when he'll go quietly on for hours hoping that I'll give in because I did the time he wanted oxblood on his shoes. And yet it seems so silly to make an issue over such a little thing."

Yes, that's the problem. He doesn't whine. He's just very quiet and most determined. If his mother gives in, he'll leap to his feet with a joyful cry of "You put on the polish and I'll do the shining." He'll be happy and helpful all day long. He'll be so proud of his oxblood shoes that he'll look at them with every step he takes.

If she doesn't give in, he'll bow quietly to authority. But, instead of prancing, he'll trudge through the remainder of the day. He will likely say that his new shoes hurt him, and that oxblood would have made them softer on his toes!

Yes, he's a tiresome, persistent little boy. He's very like what his mother was at that same age.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Diet and Hardening Arteries

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Mr. Wendell Wood, news editor of Modern Medicine, recently had an interview with Dr. Ansel Keys, who is Professor and Director of the Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene in the School of Public Health of the University of Minnesota. Dr. Keys has been travelling about the world studying the relation between diet and hardening of the arteries and the incidence of heart attacks. He has found that in some countries there is much coronary heart disease while in other countries there is little. Naturally, all of us physicians are now much interested to know if, by studying this difference, we can find out how to reduce the incidence of arteriosclerosis and heart attacks in this country.

For instance, in Japan, coronary heart disease is rare. On the other hand, in Finland it is frequent. In the rural agricultural population of eastern Finland it appears to be at least as prevalent as it is in America. This is very interesting because these people are free from the stresses and strains of business and they are engaged in strenuous physical activity which is supposed to be good for a man.

Insurance men have shown that persons who are overweight have a poorer expectation of life than have thin persons, but now Dr. Keys says that at least two-thirds of the men who have coronary heart attacks are not overweight and never were overweight.

Interesting is the observation that when, during the World Wars the people of a country had to pull in their belts and go without much fat, the incidence of coronary heart disease fell. After the war, when they could eat fats again, the incidence of heart disease went back up.

SAFER IN AFRICA

Negroes in Africa appear to have a low incidence of heart disease while those in the United States have a rather high incidence.

Although the Japanese in Japan have a low incidence of heart disease, when in Hawaii or California and they come to eat as Americans do, the frequency with which they suffer from coronary heart disease goes up.

One fact then seems definite, and this is that a high-fat diet is associated with hardening of the arteries. But if we take fats away from people we cannot be sure that the amount of their blood cholesterol (a fat-like substance that seems to do most of the harm) will come down. The difficulty is that much of the cholesterol in the body is made in the body and not derived from the fat eaten.

Today, there is excitement over the possibility that certain fats, especially of vegetable origin, may not cause a rise in blood cholesterol. I shall not go into this here because, as yet, nothing seems to be definite and settled.

As far as we know, fat in the diet is not the cause of high blood pressure. Also, coronary heart disease does not appear to be dependent on the presence of high blood pressure. However, if a man has hardening of the arteries, he is worse off if he gets hypertension. He can be worse off, also, if he has a marked tendency to clotting in his blood.

Today, a big question, can we, by any test, pick out the man who is soon going to get a heart attack? By measuring blood fats (including cholesterol) we can say that a group of men are more likely to get heart attacks, but we cannot say that any particular man will get into trouble.

CHECK-UP USEFUL

Certainly, today, any man of 40 who goes for a routine check-up should have his blood cholesterol measured. My friend, Dr. John Gofman believes that a measurement of certain of the blood lipids (fats) will give the best prediction as to a future heart attack, but this question is still being debated.

It is not so necessary to study the blood fats of women because they are nowhere near so subject to heart attacks as men are. The other day I heard Dr. Paul Dudley White say that among a hundred of his patients, 97 were men and three were women.

SYNOPSIS — A disturbance moving eastward over southwestern U.S. continues to cause variable patches of high cloud over southern B.C. However, much of this cloud will thin out during the day although a few showers may develop over interior ridges during the afternoon.

Conditions are still not too promising for the Easter weekend. A minor disturbance passed the weather ship about day break and it is moving toward the coast. Hence a gradual increase in cloud may be expected over most coastal areas Friday and some showers will reach the outer sections. Little change, however, is expected for the interior.

Dwarf Apple Cutting Won't Produce Dwarf

By JACK BEASTALL

Last week I was asked if a cutting from a dwarf apple tree would produce another dwarf tree.

Here we have an apparent exception to the rule that a cutting will make a plant identical to the one from which it was taken.

In the case of dwarf fruit trees we are dealing with a "manufactured" article consisting of a root system belonging to one plant and the top growth of another.

The dwarfing habit is obtained by using a stock composed of masses of fine roots.

When a scion of a standard tree is grafted to such a stock it obtains less food than its own roots would supply and therefore makes less growth.

NORMAL HEIGHT

A cutting would exactly reproduce the tree from which the original scion was taken, and being on its own roots would grow to its normal height.

Because dwarfing stocks have no deep, heavy anchor roots, dwarf trees require staking, especially in light soils and in exposed locations.

Stakes are also essential when the fruit tree area is under a sawdust mulch. The mulch seems to encourage surface rooting, and after five or six years the trees have been known to topple in a comparatively light wind because no anchor roots were present to prevent rocking.

SHRINE NEEDED

Don't Forget War Heroes, Says Air Chief

VANCOUVER (CP)—Unless Canada does something about it, her war heroes may soon be forgotten, says Air Marshal W. A. Curtis.

To avoid this possibility, the former RCAF chief of staff suggests that a national type of memorial shrine be established similar to the United States' Arlington Cemetery.

Canada has made air history ever since the early days of the First World War, he said in an address Wednesday to a Board of Trade Aviation Day luncheon.

Some of these figures have become renowned throughout the world. He recalled he recently attended the funeral of Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop, famous fighter pilot of the First World War and one of Canada's most celebrated military heroes.

Air Marshal Curtis said many other outstanding contributors to Canadian military history have either died or are approaching the end of their lives.

People die and are forgotten and, unless some recognition is given, once-famous names can diminish into obscurity, he said.

In an interview earlier in the day, he said integration of the RCAF with the U.S. Air Force would be "an excellent plan" to provide the most efficient air defence of North America.

At Ottawa, defence department officials said there has long been the closest co-operation between the RCAF and U.S. air defence commands.

There was no intention of altering the present system under which the RCAF and U.S. air defence forces are under separate Canadian and American command.

One Each 3 Minutes Was Canada's Pace In '56 Immigrants

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigrants arrived in Canada in 1956 at the rate of one every three minutes.

Final statistics issued Tuesday by the immigration department show that arrivals totalled 164,857, up from 109,946 in 1955. The figure for 1957 may go as high as 200,000, including some 100,000 from Britain and an estimated 18,000 Hungarian refugees.

The 1956 total compares with a previous high of 168,868 in 1953. The all-time record was 400,870, in 1913.

Chinese Takes Fire Oath In Constable Bribe Case

From CP Dispatches

VANCOUVER—A 19-year-old Chinese took an oath by fire Wednesday before testifying in assize court that a city police sergeant stopped him on a speeding charge Dec. 20 and took $9 from him.

The youth, Gow Foon Gun, watched while flames licked through a piece of paper on which he had written his name. He then swore that his soul would "burn in fire" just as his name was burning if he did not tell the truth.

Foon Gun, is the chief prosecution witness in the trial of Sgt. Cecil McIntosh. McIntosh is charged with intent to interfere with the administration of justice, protecting a person from punishment and extorting money by threatening to accuse.

As the Chinese took the stand before Mr. Justice A. M. Manson and a jury of 11 men and one woman he explained through an interpreter that he is a "Toa-ist."

Mr. Justice Manson agreed to accept his oath by paper burning. The case is continuing.

In a separate case, Ken Wong Lum, 21, was remanded until next Tuesday for formal commitment on a charge of attempting to bribe police constable F. G. Rayner.

The constable testified that he was offered $2 March 20 to "forget" a speeding infraction. Lum was previously fined $25 when he pleaded guilty to the speeding charge.

RETURN TO WORK
VANCOUVER—Club and cabaret workers went back to work in seven clubs Wednesday, ending an 18-day strike and lockout.

The employees, members of Local 740 of the Club and Cabaret Workers, accepted a 9 per cent pay increase, retroactive to Jan. 1, plus a further increase of three cents an hour next year on a two-year contract.

The workers went on strike at two clubs March 28 over a demand that the clubs pay the full seven cents an hour cost of a health and welfare plan, and the operators retaliated by locking out employees of five other clubs. The welfare clause remains unchanged in the new contract.

PGE DAYLINER DERAILED
SQUAMISH—The Pacific Great Eastern Cariboo dayliner was derailed 18 miles north of Squamish Wednesday night.

An auxiliary train was sent in and brought the passengers through Squamish and 10 miles on to Porteau, 35 miles north of Vancouver.

There the track had been blocked by a slide. A speedboat took the passengers on to Vancouver.

This morning's train did not leave North Vancouver because the slide has not been cleared. A special boat left with the passengers, who will catch the northbound train at Squamish for Prince George.

STRING OF CRIMES

VANCOUVER—A 31-year-old man who ran up a string of crimes from coast to coast in Canada was sentenced Wednesday to 12 concurrent terms of one year each on charges of theft, forgery and possession of stolen money orders.

Joseph Walker of no fixed address pleaded guilty to charges which included theft of 20 blank money-order forms at Springdale, Nfld., uttering seven forged $100 money orders in Ontario, passing two forged money orders in Nova Scotia and attempting to pass another in Vancouver.

'TOO WELL ROUNDED' TEACHERS SPARK OFFICIAL BAN ON SLACKS

BERLIN (Reuters)—The East Germany education ministry has ruled that women teachers must not wear slacks to classes. It fears they may have trouble keeping discipline—particularly if their figures are "too well-rounded."

The Journal Lehrerzeitung reports the ban and printed letters from four teachers who complained their principal had forbidden them on "moral grounds" to wear slacks.

UBC Gets New Faculty Centre As Koerners Donate $500,000

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Chancellor-elect A. E. Grauer told the University of British Columbia's Alumni Association Wednesday night that a $500,000 faculty centre would soon be erected on the campus as a "gift" from two of the university's friends.

It was the second major gift to be earmarked for the university within 12 hours.

President Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie earlier Wednesday announced receipt by the university of $250,000 from the B.C. Electric Co. of which Mr. Grauer is president.

EARLY START

Mr. Grauer said the new faculty centre would be financed entirely by Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Koerner. He said the structure would serve as "a professional home," where members of the university community can "mingle, exchange ideas and increase the sense of teamwork, so essential a part of university life."

Plans were being prepared for an early start on construction, he said.

Mr. Grauer outlined details of the university's recently announced capital gift campaign, to be officially launched this fall.

Minimum objective in the drive will be $5,000,000 and the sum will be matched by the provincial government. Funds will be earmarked for expansion and development of campus facilities.

The $250,000 donation from the B.C. Electric was the first contribution to the capital gift fund.

He said the provincial government has already pledged $10,000,000 for capital purposes over a 10-year period. The federal government had pledged an additional $5,000,000.

DO MAIN THINGS

If private sources will match the government offer, bringing in an additional $10,000,000, the university would have $25,000,000 in all, he said.

"Even this will not be enough, but it will at least let us do the main things that need to be done."

He said one of the prime values of the capital gift campaign lay in bringing corporations and individuals to "recognize that in giving financial assistance to education they are in fact reinforcing the structure of a free society."

Mr. Grauer added he would consider it "unfortunate" if Canadian youth "came to regard the government as the sole provider of the way to higher things."

Settlement Chance Seen In Walkout

Chance of a settlement in the wildcat walkout of 175 workers at Sooke Lake Lumber Co. plywood plant was forecast today by IWA president Jack MacKenzie, of local 1-118, at the Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

A meeting was scheduled between interested parties at 2 p.m. when the strikers will hear a new company proposal.

Walkout, not officially sanctioned by the union, happened when a foreman replaced a charge hand on a job.

GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH GOES ON AS USUAL

Tigers Fight Death Duel Before Horrified 15,000

NEW YORK (UP)—A male and a female tiger fought to the death in a circus ring before a matinee audience of squealing children Wednesday.

The callope played on. Aerialists swung in the rafters. The elephants continued their performance of ponderous fantasy.

But most of the 15,000-person audience watched in excited horror the vicious cat fight that led to the death of the lady tiger, Ila.

Ten other tigers sat almost motionless on their pedestals in the same caged ring for five long minutes as trainer Trevor Bale attempted to separate the fighting beasts. Ila had provoked the great male Bengal tiger, Rajah, by cutting in front of him as Bale signalled the 500-pound cats toward the chute leading off stage at the end of their act.

Rajah sprang with bared fangs at her throat. With teeth and claws he drew blood through her black and golden coat. Ila fought back, but she was no match for the attacking male as they closed in a snarling, untamed fury.

Bale threw chairs and pedestals at the beasts and fired blank cartridges in an attempt to separate them. Other circus attendants used poles from outside the cage. Their efforts came too late to save Ila. She died less than half an hour later in her basement cage.

Dr. J. Y. Henderson, veterinarian for the Ringling

Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus, said Rajah had no serious injury.

Bale said that the tigers are paired in their cages and are generally unfriendly to other than their own cage-mates. Ila was not Rajah's mate.

The show went on. The clowns turned somersaults, and the children laughed.

To 1 cup of Kraft Mayonnaise, add ¼ cup of your favorite tomato juice and mix thoroughly. Just one of the exciting dressings you can make with Kraft's "special-beating" Mayonnaise.

Try it with tomato juice, orange juice, cranberry juice, chicken broth, whatever your fancy suggests! There are dozens of intriguing new flavors you can create just by giving Kraft Mayonnaise your own personal touch.

These new dressings never curdle, never separate, never let you down. From the moment you make them, mixtures are smooth as silk and stay that way.

The secret is Kraft's special beating process. It takes more than egg yolks to make a mayonnaise that will mix like this. Only a special beating process—beating extra egg yolks and rich, creamy oils—can give you so smooth a "mixer".

Try Kraft's this week and see if it isn't better than any other.

GOVERNOR HOPES NEW MANSION WON'T BE 'HIDEOUSLY MODERN'

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross apologized for his dress at the blood donor awards ceremony at Red Cross House Wednesday night.

The governor, who had flown from Vancouver for the ceremony, said:

"This is the one suit I have left at the moment." Obviously moved, he described his personal sense of loss in the fire which destroyed Government House early Monday.

"Out of those ashes will rise a new Government House," he said. "It will probably be hideously modern, but my wife and myself will try to put into that house the same friendliness and hospitality that has been enjoyed in all the terms of my predecessors."

TWO FOR THE SHOW

By PHIL LEE

(BB PLUS) "MISTER CORY" Charles Bickford, Curtis hits the gold pot and establishes himself in a swank gambling den in Chicago and Martha undergoes a half-change of heart. Although she won't marry him she's quite willing to have fun and games with him in his apartment. Only after he is shot by Martha's tony fiancé, William Reynolds, does Tony awake to what Martha is, a 23-carat tramp. However, he doesn't pine long. For like the man who rued the passing of Clementine he discovered that it is more fun bussing little sister Kathryn Grant, a most engaging youngster.

The plot, in brief: Born in a Chicago tenement district with a built-in mastery of the poker chips, Tony Curtis is determined to make his way up the financial and social ladder no matter who he uses as rungs. As a bus boy in a swank summer resort he sees and falls for socialite Martha Hyer and woos her with some success until she sees him washing dishes.

Later, however, under the aegis of professional gambler

We could think of no more appropriate picture for Easter than "The Robe," portraying as it does the life and times of The Crucifixion. Lloyd Douglas' story of the young Roman centurion who was placed in charge of Our Lord's execution is so vividly and dramatically enacted and the disposition of "The Robe" after "they parted my garments and cast lots" is so much will live in your memory for ever and a day.

To enjoy the full significance of this picture, we advise you to see it from the beginning at the times indicated below. Unreservedly recommended.

'Got to Die Of Something' Says Doctor

Different Views At Cancer Panel

NANAIMO (CP)—Two Vancouver cancer specialists disagreed on the relationship between smoking and lung cancer at a cancer forum here this week.

Dr. Harold E. Taylor, professor of pathology at the University of British Columbia, gave a definite "No" when asked, "Is smoking a cause of lung cancer?"

Dr. Roger Wilson, Vancouver surgeon and clinic specialist, also on the panel of four doctors, said: "There is no doubt that smoking is a predisposing cause of cancer of the lungs. The evidence is overwhelming. But it does not prevent me smoking. After all, you have got to die of something."

Dr. John Hough of Nanaimo was moderator. On the panel besides Dr. Wilson and Taylor were Dr. Gordon Blott and Dr. Thomas Golding of Nanaimo.

400 LISTEN
Dr. Taylor told the audience of 400 that science is getting closer to understanding the cause of cancer.

He said there is no proof that treatment for cancer given at the Hoxsey Clinic in Texas has any real effect on malignant growths but the medical profession did not condemn it.

RCMP's Pat Byce Dies at Fairbridge

DUNCAN — RCMP Corporal Harold Kenneth (Pat) Byce of the Duncan detachment died at his home at Fairbridge early Wednesday.

A full RCMP funeral will be held Saturday from the Hirst funeral chapel.

The police detachment at the funeral will include a 12-man firing party, eight honorary bearers and six active pallbearers in addition to the NCO's in charge of the ceremony.

Corporal Byce was posted Dec. 25, 1956, for the 20-year RCMP long service award, and this would have been presented to him some time this year, in conjunction with a civic function.

Most of Corporal Byce's service was in Victoria, where he served on the Victoria detachment and also on sub-division headquarters staff prior to coming to Duncan in 1955.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

It has been proved, conclusively—oh, hundreds of times—that the Times can beat That Other Paper to swayed-back submission in anything from news-hawking to a loafing contest between the respective sports editors, who shall remain nameless this time.

(And if I ever write another sentence like that I will be back at my old job of plucking bugs off tomato plants.) All this is a matter of record. And the record will be immeasurably embellished Friday when the Times All-Star soccer team scores its inevitable victory over That Other Paper's All-Stars in a game of shin-kickers at Athletic Park. This is not conjecture. It is fact.

You do not bet that the sun will come up tomorrow. You just know it is going to happen. Victory for the Times is equally certain.

However, fear not, gentle reader. There will be a measure of competition in this game. It will not be quite so one-sided as a stomping contest between an elephant and a mouse. As manager of the Times All-Stars, I was placed squarely on the spot last night, but I must say, I came through with admirable noise and open-handed generosity.

Frankly, I was asked to bail That Other Team out of the flaming trouble they are in.

I received a phone call from my opposition manager, Jim Tang, who, in a voice quivering with piteous humility, asked if I would save his professional reputation.

Jim was in trouble, player-wise. He said that his team needed two skips, a third and an experienced lead.

After I told him that we weren't playing that game, I became recklessly generous and offered to trade him one of my many goalies, Archie McMillan, and just the best half-back in the city, Harold Holroyd.

However, for my generosity, I received a warm glow in my bosom by knowing that I had freed Paul Simpson, George Wright, and Alex Stewart from bondage with That Other Paper's team.

At this point I suppose it is only honest and fitting to admit that I had been informed earlier that Holroyd would not be in town for the game.

(Oh, I tell you, this is a cut-throat business.)

In addition to the players, I included an undisclosed sum of money in the deal to help rescue That Other Paper's team from financial collapse, brought about by mismanagement. All this I did in good faith.

After all, the game's the thing. It's bigger than the both of us.

Wright, Stewart and Simpson, when they heard they had been traded from That Other Paper's team to the Times All-Stars, could only say in choked voices, "Thank you . . . thank you."

It was touching and I felt rather like Lincoln, emancipating the slaves.

DETROIT GETAWAY STALLED

Those Kansas Yanks Lousing Up Tigers

By The United Press

Those ex-Yankees masquerading as the Kansas City Athletics occupy first place in the American League today—and they've done their old teammates a big favor, to boot, by getting the Detroit Tigers off to a poor start.

The Athletics made it two in a row over the Tigers, 5-4, in the only major league game played Wednesday and for the second straight day an ex-Yankee did the honors. Tom Morgan stopped the Tigers on four hits in Tuesday's opener and ex-Yankee farmhand Wally Burnette turned in 5½ scoreless relief innings yesterday to pick up the victory.

It can be argued that they were just two games played in April and will be forgotten by Memorial Day. But, nevertheless, they are significant for at least two reasons:

1. They bear out Kansas City manager Lou Boudreau's contention that the 12 ex-Yankees on his roster have made his Athletics a formidable team which is almost certain to quit the AL cellar.

2. And, they've served to put the "stopper" on rookie manager Jack Tighe's No. 1 spring project—getting the Tigers off to a fast start. Poor Tighe must be wondering, today what's going to happen when he runs up against the "Real Yankees."

Bob Cerv, still another ex-Yankee, started the Athletics' winning fourth-inning rally when he blasted a triple and he scored the game's decisive run on Joe DeMaestri's single. Burnette, who took over the mound in the top of

Pellow Tosses Stiff Challenge

Gordie Pellow of Uplands, who wielded a big eraser in the rash of upsets that just about wiped the list of favorites off the blackboard in last Sunday's second-round matches in the Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open golf championships, made himself an even bigger championship threat Wednesday.

Pellow, who knocked off Colwood's defending champion, Laurie Kerr at the 18th green at Victoria Golf Club, had his clubs sizzling at his home course Wednesday as he toured the par-70 Uplands layout in 67 strokes, setting a new season's mark of 33 on the long par-35 front nine up the way.

MEETS RESIDE

Faced with the job of stopping Pellow in Sunday's quarter-final round at Colwood is clubmate Al Reside, who did a bit of upsetting of his own last Sunday when he knocked over Laurie Carroll, Oak Bay's assistant pro, 4 and 3.

In another of the top matches, George Vale pro, Joe Pryke, will face fellow-professional Bill Court of Colwood who shunted medalist and former champion Bill McColl to the sidelines in a 1-up thriller.

Long-hitting George Bigelow of Oak Bay will bid for a semifinal berth against Bob Woods of Colwood and dark-horse threat Roy Chappell of the Gorge course faces Joe Briggs of Gorge.

Briggs tripped highly-regarded Vince Clark of Colwood, last year's losing finalist, 5 and 4, to move into the quarters while Chappell was crushing unattached pro Ron Cuth, 4 and 3.

Bigelow got by Don Barton, 3 and 2, in the second round, and Woods made it with a 3-and-2 decision over Bob Kelly.

Semifinal matches will be played at Gorge Vale April 27 and the 36-hole final is scheduled at Uplands May 5.

What Do Sailors Do On Their Days Off?

Sailors who like to spend some of their shore leave afloat will usher in another season of busman's holidays May 1, when the Royal Canadian Navy Anglers' Association opens its 1957 series of salmon competitions.

Hoping to see club membership climb past the 600 mark in the RCNAA's third year, officials have announced that monthly competitions for cash prizes will again be held from May 1 to Sept. 30.

An added feature this season will be the awarding of a diamond inset button to the member catching the largest salmon in waters between Race Rocks and Cowichan Bay, inclusive.

Members will again be competing for seven trophies and for club buttons, which will be awarded for landing spring salmon or 20 pounds and cobb salmon over 15 pounds on RCNAA approved tackle.

BIGGEST STEELHEADS
Due to win a bronze button for taking a steelhead over 10 pounds and leading the trophy race for the member taking the largest steelhead before May 1, is Dick James with a 13-pounder.

All RCNAA trophies will be on display at 1225 Government Street for one week, starting Saturday.

Membership in the fishing club is open to all members of the RCN, RCN (R), Royal Canadian Sea Cadets and civilian employees with the Department of National Defence.

Further information and memberships may be obtained by calling president Dick James at 2-2676.

RCAF Ruggers Boast Experience, Power

RCAF Astrals rugby team of Winnipeg will fly here for a Saturday game with JBAA at Macdonald Park. The flyers will bring 11 players, the majority of whom have had considerable experience in English league play.

A potent three-quarter line will be the airman's first weapon of offence as it sports such experienced players as D. W. Hill, scrum half, with two years with division "A," London Welsh; T. L. Jones, stand-off half, who played with Immanuel College, Cambridge; B. J. Anderson, centre, who played with Birkenhead Park; P. J. Herd, wing, of Cambridgeshire.

The scrum would not appear as strong, but it has A. M. Chandler, in the front row, who made the all-RAF trials and toured Australia with an RAF College team in 1953; wing forward C. L. Thompson played with Surrey Schools, and N. D. Collier, who played in the second row of the scrum for London Counties Schools.

Returning home for the game will be fullback C. C. McCredie, who played last year with the Victoria College Vikings. He left college to join the air force and was posted to Winnipeg.

The average age of the visiting team is 20 years, but they represent a wealth of accumulated experience in the sport.

Game time at Macdonald Park 2:30.

'Lard-Hips' Luce Seeks Revenge

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — It may have been poetic justice that goalie Lucien Dechene was a vital figure in Brandon Regals' 4-3 victory over New Westminster Royals in the first game of the Western Hockey final.

Exactly two years before, Dechene played goal for the Royals for the last time.

The Royals had lost and Dechene was shuffling to the dressing room. A fan jeered: "Goodbye, Lard-Hips!"

Dechene's dietary problems had plagued the Royals that winter and his passion for victuals had left him with the silhouette of an Easter egg.

Before another hockey season began he graduated

Magna Cum Lardy to the Brandon Regals.

Tuesday night he hobbled the Royals steadily in the first two periods and made key saves in the third.

"Always this winter, Lou made the big save," said Don Raleigh, Brandon coach, after the game. "When he comes through it gives us a chance to get the big goal. You can look it up how big his saves were in the records."

"For sure at least my best season ever," said Dechene, towelling himself after the game. Stripped, he still exhibited a bit of a balcony south of his chest, but it was not the corporation it used to be.

"Yes," he admitted. "I've reduce. Before I am 228. Now I am regular 195."

Second game of the best-of-seven final goes here tonight. The first game came near being the last of the season, and for many years to come, in New Westminster.

Chairman Bill Russell of the New Westminster Park Board Tuesday insisted that the Royals pay 17½ per cent of the gate from all playoff games as rental for the Queen's Park Arena.

"I have lost a good deal of money," Vancouver's Mayor Fred Hume, who owns the Royals, told the board and reporters. "I enjoy the games and I believe it would be a shame if the people of New Westminster are deprived of professional hockey."

"However, if you gentlemen insist on 17½ per cent the Royals will finish this series in Brandon or Calgary. I have brought president Al Leader of the Western Hockey League to confirm this plan."

Leader urged a compromise. Finally, after Hal Laycoe, Royals player-manager, described the arena as a barn and the ice indescribably bad, the board agreed to a 16½ per cent cut on all playoff games—there this year.

If Royals win tonight's game, a third game will be played here Saturday night. Otherwise the series shifts to Brandon.

Flyers May Leave WHL If Demands Not Satisfied

Threaten 'Shock' Move; Will Not Rehire Poile

EDMONTON (CP) — The Journal says Edmonton Flyers are withdrawing, at least temporarily, from the professional Western Hockey League in an attempt to "shock the game into adopting a realistic approach to its financial and physical problems."

The newspaper says it has learned from an authoritative source that WHL President Al Leader of Seattle has been sent a formal notice of withdrawal by the Edmonton Exhibition Association, which sponsors the hockey club.

Exhibition association officials said they were not prepared to confirm or deny the report.

The Journal story, by sports editor Hal Pawson, says the Edmonton decision to withdraw doesn't appear to be final, but a move to do two things: Force western professional hockey to review its financial commitments and spark a move aimed at more equitable distribution of hockey benefits.

FOLLOWS POILE DECISION

The report follows Tuesday night's announcement by the association that it doesn't plan to exercise its option to renew the contract of Flyers coach Bud Poile, who has been at the helm for five years. The Journal says the Edmonton letter to Leader was sent hours after informing Poile of its decision.

The paper says both decisions—regarding Poile and withdrawal from the league—are open to reconsideration if the exhibition board obtains its objectives, which demand positive assurance that professional hockey can be operated in the West on anything approaching a no-loss basis.

The board seeks a more equitable distribution of hockey benefits, the newspaper says, because it feels they now all favor the National Hockey League and contain no encouragement for hockey below that level.

Says the paper: "So tightly does the Edmonton board feel the NHL has hockey tied up that it will attempt to convince the WHL to operate on an 'out-law league basis if necessary,' according to one authority."

Paul Cameron To Movies?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Paul Cameron, former UCLA football great who played with Vancouver Lions in the Western Inter-provincial Football Union last year, has embarked on a career as a movie director and may not report this fall.

During the Portland-San Diego game Tuesday night Sweeney complained of stomach pains, but continued on the coaching lines. He was taken to the hospital Wednesday morning.

The affable Irishman, who was in his 19th season as a Pacific Coast League manager, had won three pennants—Portland in 1936 and Los Angeles in 1943 and 1944.

PLAYED IN MAJORS
In 1947 and '48 he served as a coach for Detroit Tigers. Sweeney was born Dec. 29, 1904, in Cleveland. He started his pro career in 1925 with Wichita of the Western League.

As a first baseman, he played three years in the majors—Detroit in 1928, and the Boston Red Sox in 1930 and '31. His lifetime batting average for 308 games was .286.

It was as a PCL manager, however, that he was best remembered.

DODGER DEAL
VERO BEACH, Fla. (NEA) — Of the last 10 National League Rookies-of-the-Year, four were Dodgers—Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe, Joe Black and Junior Gilliam.

Bevos' Bill Dies After Operation

(From UP and AP)

The Portland Beavers, plagued by bad luck in the infant Pacific Coast League season, suffered another blow today with the death of manager William (Bill) Sweeney.

Sweeney died in San Diego's Mercy Hospital at 12:40 a.m. after undergoing an operation for a perforated ulcer. He was 52.

Doctors gave him only a 50-50 chance to survive after operating on him last night.

Sweeney had retired from baseball in 1955, but returned to the game in July, 1956, when he took over the Bevos from Tommy Holmes. He had piloted Portland, Seattle, Hollywood and Los Angeles during his long career in the PCL.

During the Portland-San Diego game Tuesday night Sweeney complained of stomach pains, but continued on the coaching lines. He was taken to the hospital Wednesday morning.

The affable Irishman, who was in his 19th season as a Pacific Coast League manager, had won three pennants—Portland in 1936 and Los Angeles in 1943 and 1944.

PLAYED IN MAJORS
In 1947 and '48 he served as a coach for Detroit Tigers. Sweeney was born Dec. 29, 1904, in Cleveland. He started his pro career in 1925 with Wichita of the Western League.

As a first baseman, he played three years in the majors—Detroit in 1928, and the Boston Red Sox in 1930 and '31. His lifetime batting average for 308 games was .286.

It was as a PCL manager, however, that he was best remembered.

WARRIORS HURT MOST IN WHL FAN FALL-OFF

SEATTLE (AP) — Attendance in the Western Hockey League was down approximately 46,000 during the regular season this year compared with a year ago, circuit president Al Leader reported Wednesday.

The biggest loser was Winnipeg, which dropped nearly 70,000. Calgary led the league in attendance with 137,660 customers, a drop of not quite 200. Gains were shown by Edmonton, Brandon, Seattle and New Westminster.

The regular season attendance, by cities:

Ack-Acks on Target With Sports Record

By GRAHAM COX

They have been doing it quietly, but a group of young men in Esquimalt have been going efficiently about the business of collecting provincial and Western Canada sports championships.

Feats of the athletes in question are usually camouflaged by a layer of khaki and they seldom appear in the more publicized sports leagues or events. They are members of an army unit—the 4th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery—stationed at Work Point Barracks.

However, they are up against strong competition in the various service leagues and their talents have been sufficient to keep the trophy case outside the unit quarter-master's office well stocked with trophies.

TOP RINK

A curling rink from the unit competed with three other Army quartets at Vancouver last month in the annual tri-service bonspiel against four rink squads from the RCAF and Navy. The Army piled up the greatest number of points and the rink from the 4th "Ack-Ack" paced the victory by racking up the top individual total.

Gnr. Fred Kerr skipped the rink with Bdr. Ward Snyder tossing third rocks. Bdr. Tom Clifford playing second and L/Bdr. Jack Trefry holding down the lead spot. Handling the squad was Lieut. Lorne Kendall.

Out of a possible 100 points, the Work Point aggregation compiled 76 and was far out in front in the race for the trophy for the leading rink.

The whole battery is proud of their little man with the big fists.

Gunner B. A. Harrison is still in Kingston, Ont., where last week he challenged for the Canadian Army novice lightweight boxing crown.

He was one of eight members of the battery who entered elimination bouts at Esquimalt for places in the B.C. championships at Chilliwack. Harrison picked up the B.C. title and added the Western Canada crown at Calgary.

LOSES DECISION
His victory skin came to an end at Kingston, but it took two bouts to drop him out of the running. He punched out a decision in his opening match and lost a close verdict in his second battle.

The eight-man volleyball team travelled a long road before adding its contribution to the trophy case.

It had to beat all other Army units in the area for a crack at the Navy team in the Island semi-final. Next step up the ladder was the Island final, when the Ack-Acks ran into stiff competition from Comox Air Force Base.

The title shot came April 5 at Sea Island when they met the Air Force again in the B.C. playoffs. This time it was easy for the tournament veterans and they took their opposition in three straight games for the title.

With these three major titles under their belts, it is not to be understood that this is all they do in the way of sports.

They have regular bowling leagues and a red hot softball loop.

In addition there is a continuous small-bore shooting competition that produces many fine shots for the unit.

The small-arms group and the curling rinks are the only teams that presently compete with non-military teams.

During the summer, the bat-

Barons Thwart Billy's Amerks

CLEVELAND (AP)—A goal by Ken Hayden, his third of the game, won the American Hockey League's Calder Cup for the Cleveland Barons here Wednesday night as they defeated Billy Reay's Rochester Americans, 5-4, in a blazing double overtime contest before 9,505 fans.

The Barons, who entered the game leading the Americans three games to one in the best-of-seven series, captured the cup for the eighth time in the 21-year history of the circuit.

Centre Cal Stearns started the game winning play when he took a pass from defenceman Steve Kraftcheck at Barons end and started for the Rochester goal.

The American defence moved in at the blue line and he dropped the puck to Hayden who skated straight at goalie Bob Perreault and shot from 50 feet out.

Perreault, who had made 27 saves, dove for the puck but it skidded into the Rochester net.

BREAKS DEADLOCK

The winning goal came in a sudden death overtime after two scoreless periods.

In the opening minutes of the game the Barons overwhelmed the Americans when Stearns scored at 6:37 and Hayden at 12:02.

With two Barons in the penalty box, Gordon Hannigan slammed a short shot past goalie Marcel Paille at 15:45 for the first Rochester score.

Less than a minute later, Earl

Balfour broke away from the blue line and went in alone to score, tying the game 2-2.

Both teams scored twice in the second period. Hayden hit for his second goal at 3:18 and Dan Poliziani scored at 17:00 for the Barons. For Rochester, Eddie Mazur scored at 5:25 and Hannigan got his second goal at 13:08.

Boxla Brass Puts Veto On Transfers

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Inter-city Lacrosse League Commission has refused to approve transfer of two Vancouver players to other teams because it would endanger "the league's balance."

Defenceman Mario Crema and forward Bobby Marsh of Vancouver Pilseners had applied for transfer to New Westminster Salmonbellies and Nanaimo Timbermen respectively.

"We couldn't let too many veterans leave Vancouver," said league secretary Tom Gordon. "It would ruin the league's balance."

HERE'S HOW AND WHERE

Going Fishing Over Easter?

Mid-April days breed trout fever and unless the weather crosses us up, this weekend should bring the first large-scale invasion of Vancouver Island's inland waterways.

Although fishing hardly could be rated as better than fair in most trout spots, several places are due for some fast action as soon as we get enough sun to bring out a good hatch or boost the water temperature a few degrees.

But even if fishing is slow, you can always toss a worm-baited hook out in the water and lay back to enjoy the outdoor air while waiting for a float to bob under the water. Float fishing, incidentally, is producing some fair trout catches in some of the smaller lakes.

And you don't have to go far from Victoria for a chance to catch trout. It's mostly bait fishing or trolling, but there are fish coming out of Thetis, Prospect, Elk and Beaver Lakes and at Elk and Beaver there's a fair chance of hooking bass around the shoreline.

A bit further out, Shawnigan and Kemp Lakes and Rogers (Dougan's) Lake are giving up some trout to trollers and fly-casters (try a yellow or orange-bodied fly). On Salt Spring Island, St. Mary's Lake is reported a poor bet for bass, but Cusheon Lake could be worth a try for trout.

If you're going a bit further, Cowichan River tapered off a bit with rising water, but is still one of the best producers with a few steelhead still in the stream and trout available from the headwaters to the mouth. Bottom fishing is giving the best results, although cutthroats are taking small spoons and silver-bodied flies in the lower reaches.

Trollers are scoring in Cowichan, Somenos and Quamichan Lakes and near Nanaimo, the gang troll is bringing in trout at Divers, Brannan, Quesnell and the Nanaimo Lakes.

There has been a good run of steelhead in the Nanaimo River, but reports suggest you skip the Kokstah and Chelmainus Rivers.

The same reports say you'll have a good chance for trout in the Little Qualicum, Somass, Englishman's and Campbell Rivers.

Things sound fairly good in the Alberni District, where trout are coming out of Sproat, Great Central, Cameron, Summit and Dog Lakes and the Stamp, Sproat and Ash Rivers and cutthroats are around the mouths of all rivers.

If it is steelhead you want, the Salmon and San Juan Rivers should be worth a trip.

Bluebacks are still providing the most action for the salt-water fishing clan, but Sonny Gicas made some of the biggest news Wednesday morning when he landed a button-sized spring salmon at Saanich Inlet.

Fishing with T. Captain and W. Burger at MacKenzie Bay, Gicas hooked a 20-pounder on a Strip-Teaser used with 12 ounces of weight. The trio also had a seven-pounder and six bluebacks.

After a slow spell last week, the Inlet has been a hot spot for the past few days and limit catches of grise and small springs are being taken from all parts. Making things a bit more interesting is the fact that the blues started hitting bucktail flies again Tuesday afternoon.

Among the anglers who have taken limit catches this week are Mrs. Frank Nuttall, three successive days; Bob Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McTaggart and Mr. and Mrs. John Rose, two straight days; Jim Harper and J. Jamieson, Gordon Aaronson, Mr. and Mrs. Vince Reid, Ken Wringe, Al Rigler and Vic Humphries, who included a 15-pounder with his quota catch.

Another hot spot in the past week has been Arbutus Point off Maple Bay, where the blues have been grabbing bucktails, spoons and herring strip without any apparent preference. And they are still providing a good number of limit catches off Crofton.

Full Tax Review Urged by Reeve

Municipalities Too Vulnerable Says Norris; Asks Re-allocation

It is time a complete review is undertaken of the whole Canadian taxation picture, Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay said Wednesday.

Addressing the Victoria Real Estate Board, he called for "re-allocation" in the fields of federal, provincial and municipal taxation.

"Taxation as we know it is obsolete today. There have been no major changes since the BNA Act."

He termed "ridiculous" that real estate is the basis of assessment as it does not necessarily equate the ability to pay.

Municipalities are "vulnerable" under the schools formula, the reeve said, as the provincial government has the right to insist municipalities raise the assessment level, "automatically reducing their own contribution to school costs."

Oak Bay, he recalled, under its charter of 50 years ago, has since been an exclusively residential area, developed under the local improvement system.

Thus Oak Bay presents "a very nice" setup for the speculative builder as obligation to pay for services falls on the purchaser.

But, he pointed out, the municipality was careful not to allow large subdivisions with building getting out of hand.

MAINTAIN VALUES

Municipal zoning, he admitted, had been called "sticky," but Mr. Morris said this was the only answer to keep up property values.

Speaking of the gradual disintegration of homes centrally located which comes with city expansion, he suggested, with a laugh, that one way to keep these residences from going downhill would be to increase taxes as the houses depreciated.

CITY TRAFFIC COURT FINES

In city police court Wednesday: Herbert Roy, 1325 Vimy, $15 for passing school patrol flags. Oscar F. Kurtz, 415 Dunedin, $15 for passing school patrol flags. Brian Leighton Palfrey, 4290 Glenford, $25 for speeding over 30. Thomas E. Palmer, 840 Craigflower, $40 and licence suspension for careless driving. Leonard Ralph Brookhart, 403 Bay, $20 for speeding over 30. James C. Morrison, 3029 Orillia, $40 for careless driving; remanded for careless driving.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

By AB KENT

Cadets Like Sail Boat? Yes Sir! Came Soon as Anonymous Gift

Pride of RCSC Rainbow is a graceful, gleaming, 21-foot Lightning class yacht which could hold her own with the best under sail in these waters.

Only a few seasons old, she's sound of plank and rigging and dressed with shimmering new nylon sails.

To a broker her market value would be anywhere from $500 to $1,000, and for the past 12 months she's been a pearl in the oyster of 195 sea cadets.

She materialized overnight last spring and to this day no one in the corps knows where she came from.

Mystery began on the evening of the night in question when corps commanding officer Lt. Cmdr. T. A. Dando received an anonymous telephone call asking how his boys would like a Lightning sail boat.

Of course, they would, he said, but where would they get the money?

NEED NO MONEY

Not needed, the caller replied. The craft would be delivered to Rainbow without obligation.

And there it was next morning sitting at the foot of Robert Street, complete with mast and sails, just as it had been unloaded from a truck or trailer.

Her acquisition brought boat strength of the corps to nine, or nearly one boat for every 20 cadets.

As with any yachting or boat club, where members are among the first persons to notice a seasonal tang in the air, spring finds cadets toiling to refit the fleet for six months of boat training and cruising in sheltered waters.

IMPROVISE

Officers and cadets do all their own fitting, painting and repairs, using ofttimes improvised facilities at Rainbow.

There are two 27-foot service whalers, one on loan from the RCN, the other owned by the corps. These are two-masted vessels which may be sailed or, as in training or competition, pulled by sweeps.

Also property of the Navy League, which sponsors cadets, is a 24-foot pulling cutter, a 16-foot pulling dinghy and four 14-foot dinghies.

Most boating is done on inside waters of the harbor, where on the north shore's West Bay, Rainbow has a boat-house, wharf and float providing up to 160 feet of moorage.

Sometimes, if weather is clear and calm, there is sailing outside the harbor mouth, usually on a Sunday afternoon.

Summertime weekend camps are held on Discovery Island, for which whalers, cutter and Lightning are used in addition to a power cruiser loaned by the island's owner, Capt. E. G. Beaumont.

Rules insist on the presence of an officer (adult) in each vessel as a precautionary measure and to reassure parents. Cadets themselves act as crew and stand duty as coxwains.

If under oars and within hailing distance of Rainbow, a cadet petty officer is permitted to take overall charge of a boat.

The season, which extends to the end of September, provides one of the finest opportunities for youngsters 12-18 to learn fundamentals of boating, sailing and safety afloat.

Special Services For Good Friday

Special services will be held in most city churches Good Friday.

Rev. C. M. Hubbard will preach at a children's service in Christ Church Cathedral at 9:30 a.m., followed by matins, with Rev. R. E. H. Rowell preaching at 10:30.

Three hours' devotion, conducted by Rev. F. T. Kingston, MA, BD, DPhil, Anglican Theological College Vancouver, will begin at noon.

Cathedral evensong will be at 5 p.m., and the choir will give a recital of church music accompanied by readings of the Passion narratives, entitled "The Passion of Our Lord Jesus Christ," at 8 p.m.

COMBINED SERVICE

Rev. A. I. Higgins will preach at a combined service for First United and Metropolitan United congregations in Metropolitan United Church at 11 a.m.

Baptist Young People of Victoria will conduct an 11 a.m. Good Friday service in First Baptist Church with Miss Bernice Ploss in charge. Guest preacher will be Rev. J. C. A. Barton, former pastor of Douglas Street Baptist. The First Baptist choir will present an hour of music from "The Messiah" at 8 p.m.

GAS PRICE STUDY

Labor Charges 'Intricate Skulduggery'

Carpenters' international representative Victor Midgley Wednesday repeated earlier statements that oil companies operated "an intricate system of skulduggery" in sale prices of gas and oil.

He told the Victoria Labor Council "we are firmly of the opinion the public is being gouged."

The latest statement came after two weeks of study by a special committee.

He said crude oil was being piped through B.C. and then into Washington and Oregon for delivery at a lower cost than is being paid here.

Cliff Parker, business agent for operating engineers, informed the council that a seminar on political education and automation will be held in the Labor Temple here June 7-9.

TWO ANNUALLY

He said two such gatherings a year could be expected from now on. The seminar will be conducted by Tom Gooderham, Vancouver, regional director of the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mr. Parker asked action on non-attendance of many delegates to VLC.

The situation has been the same for five years, he said. With 10,000 members of affiliated unions, only about one-half of the delegates showed up at VLC meetings. "Locals or delegates are falling down," he stated.

Thieves Prey Twice on Same Hotel Guest

Thieves appear to be making an example of Jim Cressir, Glen Court Hotel, 707 Blanshard.

He told police Wednesday someone entered his room the day before and took away a $30 leather jacket, $30 gold wrist watch, $25 car coat and $25 electric razor.

At that time, he explained, several other room keys in the hotel also fit the lock on his door.

This morning he called police again to report his wallet stolen.

Cressir said two men had visited his room Wednesday night and offered him a drink. After they left, he noticed his wallet was gone. It contained no money.

Cannon's Body Due In Montreal Sunday

OTTAWA (CP)—The body of Lucien Cannon, Canadian diplomat stabbed to death in Indochina 10 days ago, is due to arrive by air in Montreal Easter Sunday, an external affairs department spokesman said Wednesday. Cannon, 39, member of the international truce supervisory teams in Indochina, was slain in Saigon. No arrests have been made so far.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN WOMAN LIVES

TORONTO (CP)—Four cars of a subway train passed over a Toronto woman Wednesday, but she escaped with a broken ankle, an injured elbow and a small laceration of the scalp.

Hospital officials described the condition of Mrs. Florence Kay, 33, as "fairly good." Witnesses said the woman lost her balance while standing on the platform at the Queen Street station, and fell in front of a north-bound train.

DRUG TRAFFICKER JAILED

VANCOUVER — A frail, 65-year-old man who said his sole interest in life was to get narcotics, was sentenced Wednesday to two years at hard labor for drug trafficking. Richard (Diamond Jim) Morley had been convicted of procuring a heroin capsule for RCMP undercover agent Const. Theodore Gangdal.

Power Commission Crews to Get Going Pay Rate

Wage rates for major construction by the B.C. Power Commission will be those established by labor agreements in the areas concerned, the commission and the B.C. Buildings Trades Councils jointly announced today.

The statement said the commission proposes to interpret the "fair wages" provision of the Power Act, under which it is constituted, as the rates established locally for construction workers.

VACANT TORONTO CLUB LATEST FIRE VICTIM

TORONTO (CP)—The fourth large fire in Toronto during the past 48 hours Wednesday night destroyed the west end club Top Hat.

The club which has not operated for some time is being torn down to make way for road construction. Parts of the club still standing were engulfed in flames before firemen could control them.

No estimate of loss was available. The fire epidemic started Monday night in a tire warehouse in the Don Valley. It was followed the same night by a paper-factory fire 500 yards away. Tuesday morning fire burned a Grand and Toy building on a downtown street.

SYMPHONY CONDUCTOR ASSISTS SCHOOLS ORCHESTRA

MONTE ROBERTS

This is to issue fair warning: If you see a new, vigorous, bright eyed, square-shouldered Roberts striding about the streets of Victoria starting May 1, do not be surprised.

The new Roberts will be helping the Chiropractors' Association of B.C.

The Chiropractors have chosen May 1 to May 7 as National Correct Posture Week.

And I have been privileged to get an advance peek at some of the instructions issued by the chiropractors for Correct Posture Week.

Most important instructions appear to be:

"STAND TALL, SIT TALL, SLEEP TALL."

That is, if you happen to be a tall man.

Being on the short side myself, I am having a little trouble at the moment, but expect to be able to stand tall as soon as my new elevator shoes are delivered.

Sitting tall is no trick at all if you have had any practice on those high stools at, er, soda fountains.

As for sleeping tall, I am willing to try, but can't figure out how to stay awake so I can find out how tall I am asleep.

In addition to standing, sitting and sleeping tall, the chiropractors urge us to follow a few simple exercises daily, to preserve tone and strength of muscle supporting the spinal column.

I intend to follow this advice faithfully.

I would hate to have my spinal column sue my muscles for non-support.

Of course, the spinal column would first have to find the muscles.

"LEARN TO RELAX COMPLETELY."

On this I have already put in years of practice.

The only trouble is, when I relax completely, my spinal column resembles a stick of wet spaghetti.

Which is hard to reconcile with standing, sitting and sleeping tall.

But never fear. Come Correct Posture Week you will see the New Roberts.

From now on I am going to drink nothing but posterized milk.

Socred 'Ballyhoo' Rapped by Fairey

Social Credit may take a few seats from the CCF and Conservatives in the June election, but they won't take any from the Liberals, said Dr. F. T. Fairey, Liberal MP for Victoria, on his return from Ottawa today.

"They won't get anywhere in Ontario or Quebec," Dr. Fairey predicted. "Why, many people back there have never even heard of Social Credit. They don't know what it is all about."

Dr. Fairey referred to the Socred campaign meeting in Toronto tonight as "a big ballyhoo, American-type convention that won't cut any ice."

"It's just good entertainment—that's all. I watched Premier Bennett's arrival in Toronto over TV. What a show! But it won't get anywhere."

The 70-year-old member, a leading educationalist, is equally certain the Liberal government will increase its majority in the election.

"I don't think we have anything to worry about," he said. Dr. Fairey had a good word for B.C. Conservative members Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (Esquimalt - Saanich) and E. Davie Fulton (Kamloops).

"Men of that calibre are not easily displaced. They are pretty solid in Ottawa, which is more than can be said for the Social Credit members."

Dr. Fairey will be in Vancouver Monday and Tuesday attending a Liberal meeting to organize for the federal election.

"After that we shall get down to some solid campaigning," he said. "The highlight, of course, will be Prime Minister St. Laurent's visit to B.C. next month."

Dr. Fairey hopes Mr. St. Laurent will make a major statement on the government's foreign policy when he addresses a big Liberal rally in the Royal Theatre Saturday May 4.

The resolution suggested that designation of such an order of merit be made by non-partisan committees set up in each province to consider and recommend men and women who have performed outstanding public service, or have distinguished themselves in arts and professions.

Three names were suggested: the "Order of the Maple Leaf," the "Order of the Beaver" or the "Canadian Order of Merit." Such an order would supplement those already bestowed by the British government.

A second resolution urged that Canada be requested to pay to all blind adults, over the age of 18, a specific allowance, free from the means test, to take care of guiding and other expenses peculiar to blindness. The resolution urged that the government be petitioned for a cost of living bonus to cover the expenses incurred by blind persons.

Four shops in the block bounded by Douglas, Broad, Yates and Johnson were entered overnight Tuesday, investigation showed.

The four new charges were for offences committed Sunday, when four other shops in the same block were reported entered, or attempts to enter had been made, but nothing stolen.

The new charges were for offences at Dick's Ladies' Wear, 1322 Douglas; Larry Wagner's News Depot, 1320 Douglas; O. H. Dorman Ltd., 1328 Douglas, and Tip Top Tailors Ltd., 648 Yates.

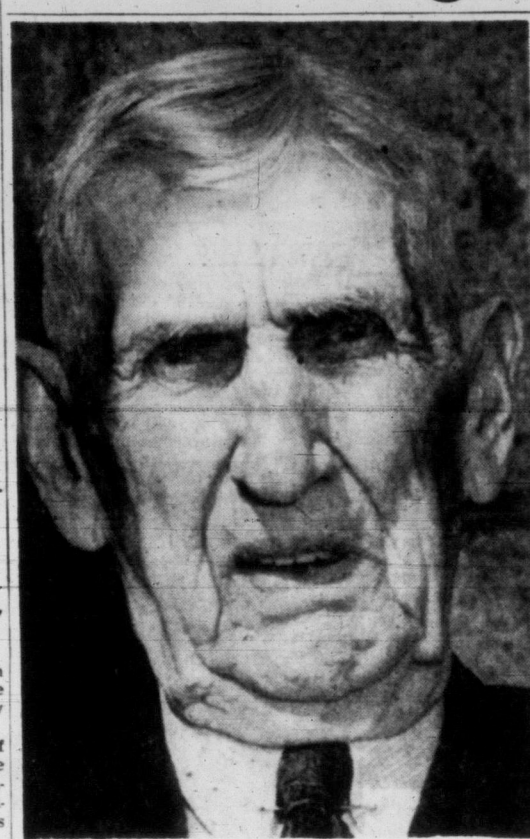

The pair was remanded to April 25 for a probation report.

Queen Scout Investiture ceremonies for 78 Boy Scouts "definitely" will be held here next Thursday, executive commissioner of Boy Scouts, Robert Milks, announced today.

Victorians who have volunteered to billet out-of-town scouts are asked to meet them at Thunderbird Park Wednesday between 5 and 5:30 p.m.

2 Seamen Freed In Knifing Case

CAPT. EDMUND MANNING... details, details...

Two of three British merchant seamen accused of stabbing unemployed welder Philip Walter Morgan, 33, early March 27, were acquitted in city police court today.

The third man, John Huartson, 18, Fleetwood, Lanes., who pleaded guilty to the charge last week, was remanded today to next Tuesday to permit completion of a probation report.

Found not guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall were John Foulks, 23, Colwyn Bay, North Wales, and Brian Smith, 18, Liverpool.

All were seamen aboard the freighter Baron Incheape, which docked here March 26 and sailed a few days later for Trinidad. Foulks and Smith likely will be returned to England.

The magistrate said he was satisfied the two were endeavoring to restrain Morgan from assaulting Wayne Gilbert Quesnelle, 48½ Head, who had been out for a drive with Morgan's common-law wife, Shelby Galley, the night of the offence.

"You and each of you were endeavoring to restrain him (Morgan) from doing so. I am satisfied that is what you did do..."

SATISFIED

"I am satisfied in my own mind you did not know Huartson had a knife... I find you not guilty."

Called Wednesday as a defence witness by lawyer Ken Murphy, Huartson said Smith and Foulks were helping Morgan to his feet after a scuffle with Quesnelle outside 1510 Belcher about 2 a.m.

He said he pulled out a hunting knife, purchased about four days earlier in Vancouver, and stabbed Morgan before he regained his feet.

Huartson said he put the knife away again quickly and was sure no one else had seen his action.

BEAT WOMAN

Huartson told the court Morgan first started to beat Mrs. Galley in the front of the car, where she and Quesnelle were sitting outside 1510 Belcher.

"We weren't going to sit by and watch the girl being beaten. We interfered to stop him hitting the girl."

Foulks, he said, grabbed Morgan and tried to pull him from the car. Quesnelle and Mrs. Galley both got out of the car and started to run away when the seamen told them they would prevent Morgan from assaulting the couple.

Morgan started to go after Quesnelle, Huartson said, "He started lashing about," after falling to his knees and the seamen went to help him up. "That's when I pulled the knife. I lost my temper and went haywire."

Smith and Foulks both swore they did not know Huartson had a knife and that it was about 10 days later, while the three were in custody, that they learned he had stabbed Morgan.

On the stand today Foulks described the scuffle Morgan was attempting to have with Quesnelle, and the restraining action the three were taking.

SLIPPED AGAIN

"He (Morgan) slipped again, more or less down to his knees, and Smith and I let him go."

"He was still sort of lashing around... He got up and said 'I thought you were shipmates—buddies,' and then he got up and ran away."

The seamen and Morgan had met at a beer parlor that evening, drank in a club and then Morgan offered to take them to see "the lights." They went to 1510 Belcher where Mrs. Galley and Quesnelle were encountered in a parked car.

Morgan told Wednesday how he had run toward Jubilee Hospital, about two blocks away, when he realized he had been stabbed.

FOLLOWED HIM

Foulks and Huartson followed him and Smith was taken away in the car by Quesnelle and Mrs. Galley.

Morgan made it as far as a telephone booth at Richmond and Fort, where he tried to call for help, but collapsed.

Foulks said he and Huartson found Morgan and tried to help him by calling police, but the telephone in the booth was not working. He quoted Morgan as saying, before he passed out, "Help me you guys. I'm bleeding to death. I've been stabbed," and then he fell out of the booth.

Smith said regarding the scuffle, "He (Morgan) started lashing out. I got out of the road of his fists, then he took off down the road."

22 TIMES AROUND THE HORN

Old Salt to Sail Air Waves to N.S.

By TONY DICKSON

The captain is sailing again Saturday.

But this time it will be by TCA, back to his home in Yarmouth, N.S.

Captain Edmund Manning, 94 on April 10, is still as straight as a mast, though perhaps today not quite as strong.

He is one of the few remaining salts from the romantic and rugged days of sailing ships.

White hair bobbing in reminiscence, and only occasionally prompted by his daughter, with whom he is staying here—Mrs. R. S. Evans, 3960 Cedar Hill Road—he recalled his half-century afloat which included nearly 35 years in sail.

When did you retire, captain?

"About 10 years ago," he said.

Said Mrs. Evans, "No, father, you retired almost 30 years ago..."

Retorted the captain with asperity, "details, details..."

Born in Bridgewater, N.S., he shipped out at the age of 16 on the Belvedere, Belfast-bound. At the age of 25 he got his master's ticket after serving in a half-dozen sailing vessels.

His first command was the Goudey, and he took her to the Far East. Later he commanded the Glasgow-built William T. Lewis, his first iron ship, a four-masted barque, and was with her 11 years.

Aboard with him much of this time were his wife and two daughters.

He was with the Lewis when she was torpedoed 150 miles off the coast of Ireland in the First World War, and was rescued by a passing Danish freighter.

Exact starting time and prizes will be announced later.

Organizer of the marathon on behalf of the community association is E. Massick, 1018 Rockland, and those who want to enter should contact him. The telephone number is 2-8718.

Eric Butler was re-elected president and Jack Keating was named vice-president.

Directors chosen were Stan Jones, Rob Martin, Mrs. W. Eddy, John Wilson, Ray Blouin, Jerry Neal, Mrs. Robinson, Frank Gray, George Timlott and Bill Stephenson.

City Powerless In Restriction On Store Hours

Sunday and evening sale of groceries by neighborhood stores will be illegal after July 1, but city aldermen agreed this morning they can do nothing about it.

Council finance committee reviewed a letter of protest from Independent Merchants' Co-operative Association. It was recommended the protest be made direct to the provincial government.

Under the new Municipal Act which becomes effective July 1, all shops must close at 6 p.m. Council may authorize them to remain open until 9 p.m. one night a week. Steps are being taken now to permit opening on Wednesday afternoons until 6 p.m. for July and August.

EXEMPTIONS

Council also plans to take full advantage of the act where exemptions to the early closing are allowed for some products.

But the most "wide-open" by-law the city can pass will only permit night and Sunday sales of bakery products, drug store items, fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, soft drinks, dairy products, flowers and confectionery.

Purchases of frozen foods, canned groceries, and staples will be disallowed.

City-Sooke Marathon July 11 To Highlight Start of Fete

All-Spoke Day's 23-mile marathon run—from Victoria City Hall to Sooke River Bridge—will be held July 11.

Date for the event was set Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the Sooke Community Association.

It will highlight the first day of the three-day All-Spoke celebrations.

The marathon will be open to all amateurs, regardless of age.

It is believed to be the longest organized run in this area.

A Bride's Aversion to Showers:

My stepdaughter has an aversion to "gimmie" parties for brides-to-be. She is to be married in six months, and many of her friends and relatives are already talking about showers. Although everyone knows of the engagement, her mother is planning a large reception to celebrate the engagement. The girl is alarmed that the invited guests will feel obligated to bring or send gifts. She has Louise Davis come to me for advice, which puts me in a peculiar position, so I am asking you for suggestions. The questions amount to: How can gifts be avoided?

Louise Davis answers:

It would help if the party were put in a different category than that of an engagement reception. The girl should plead with her mother, who should consider her wishes. It is up to her to take a firm stand right now before it is too late. An "at home" would lessen the sting of an engagement announcement reception. People wouldn't be so gift-minded. Another plan is that the mother issues invitations to an at home "to meet (the fiancé) Mr. William Baker," assuming that Mr. Baker hasn't met all of the bride's friends and relatives. Your stepdaughter should begin campaigning for the future by telling friends and relatives of the two families that she sincerely wishes that they would help her pass the word around that she prefers no showers whatsoever at any time. That doesn't mean no parties at all. It just means that if anyone wants to entertain, "Please see that it isn't a shower." Your stepdaughter is to be admired, so I say "Hooray for her!"

EASTER EGG COSTS $750

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Like everything else, the price of Easter eggs has come up. A Fort Worth woman recently paid what may be an all-time high price on the Easter egg market—$750—for a single egg that isn't even a real egg. It was made of plaster.

The buyer was Mrs. Clint Murchison, whose oilman husband is ranked among the nation's wealthiest men. She bought the egg at an auction for the benefit of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (Easter-seal) held at a Dallas department store.

One saving thing about Mrs. Murchison's expensive egg—it was decorated by Walt Disney. The store sent the eggs to celebrities for decoration. George Apple, noted southwest cattle auctioneer from McKinney, Tex., auctioned the eggs.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For a couple of days I am letting you in on the mail which came from women in response to a letter I printed from a man who claimed to be the perfect housekeeper. He bemoaned the fact that women better organized. These comments from readers will scratch an itch for many of you and also are amusing and interesting.

"I can see that the man who wrote the letter has no children. I could be well organized, too, if I kept my children tied and gagged and locked in the closet all day."

Another: "Perhaps when my children go to school I will have more time but until then no male efficiency expert is going to tell me I am disorganized. Pity the family which is so organized that there is never time for a smile, a laugh, a hug, or a spur-of-the-moment excursion."

Again: "There is one point I would like to bring to this man's attention. We consider efficient housekeeping only one phase of our job. He didn't mention time to nurse a bruised knee or heart, or time for character building, or being a good listener about a hard day at the office or any of the little things which make a home."

Another: "Housekeeping is, in a way a business, and as such has its share of details. Again: 'Mr. X's letter on 'spousekeeping' was so enjoyable that I made a special effort today to organize my work so there would be time to write this."

That is to say that in our household of six (plus one turtle, two mice and a small cricket), I have mentally piled up the areas of work and tagged them with the years I am likely to get to them. It brings me up to 1961.

"What I really admire about Mr. X is not his marvelous dispatchment but his detachment and his apparent calm and complete adjustment to his routine. When my head stops whirling I am going to try it, seven days a week."

Still another: "The gimmick, I believe, is outside stimulation. Business men would go stale, all day in the same room or house. One of the basic psychological needs is the need for

Rock Garden Plants Ready For Showing

Mrs. Sybil McCulloch is proud of her Prospect Lake property. A lively stream bubbles through and rustic, moss-covered trees frame a view of the lake.

But the focal point is Mrs. McCulloch's garden of rock flowers. A rise of rock to her house is a perfect foundation for a handsome display of plants.

As secretary of Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society, Mrs. McCulloch is busy preparing for the society's annual show, and the choicest plants from her own garden will be among the entries.

Plants she will display in the show are now being pampered in a small cold frame. Among them are primula roses, parsley fern from Mount Prevost, erythroniums (lilies) and rock narcissus. But more than care of her own plants concerns Mrs. McCulloch. Arrangements for the show of April 26 and 27 are occupying much of her time, for she and other committee members are striving to make it the best show yet.

Mrs. A. Berry of Portland and E. Gregg of Royston will be judging the show, which takes place in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden.

Nine years' membership in the Rock and Alpine Garden Society has taught Mrs. McCulloch much about caring for the small garden plants.

"I knew nothing about it until I joined the society," says Mrs. McCulloch, who does all her own gardening.

For the past three years she has been secretary of the society, which has over 100 members.

Two Victoria Credit Women Mark 25 Years in the Work

Mrs. Evelyn Banfield and Miss Florence MacDougall were honored this morning at the seventh annual Bosses' Breakfast sponsored by the Victoria Credit Women's Breakfast Club in McEwen's Tartan Room.

In a special ceremony they were presented with certificates and pins to mark 25 years in credit work and it was announced that they now belong to the Career Club of North America, whose members all have marked a quarter-century in the work. Mrs. Esther Harwood presided and each member of the club had her "boss" as a guest. Special guests included the members of the Credit Granters' Association. Mrs. Banfield gave the invocation; Miss Audrey Harness the toast to the bosses and Ed McClure, president of the Credit Granters' Association, the reply. Guest speaker, Miss Hilda Hesson gave an interesting and educational talk on the forgotten isle of Tristan da Cunha in the South Atlantic Ocean, its people, customs and its isolation from the rest of the world. She was introduced by Mrs. Marie Ash and thanked by Miss Vidie Ovenden.

Favors included small containers of salt, a booklet on the history of salt and a souvenir table napkin printed with the words "our bosses are the salt of the earth."

Harvard's Place in the Story Of Astronomy Goes Back to 1843

Harvard's role in the field of astronomy, was ably explained by Dr. Anne Underhill at a meeting of the University Women's Club of Victoria on Wednesday evening.

The speaker, who spent a year lecturing at Harvard, pointed out that when Harvard Observatory was built in 1843, it possessed the largest telescope in the world, a 15-inch refractor. It was at Harvard that the first daguerotypes of the moon were taken.

At present Harvard is concentrating on two special aspects of study, solar astronomy, of vital military importance today, and radio astronomy.

Dr. Underhill showed slides of the enormous radio telescope erected in 1956—a giant "dish" of aluminium mesh and pipe measuring 60 feet across and the largest in North America. She told of the "enormous concentration of young people eagerly furthering their knowledge in many fields" at this university and described one of the most outstanding displays there as the Harvard Museum, where may be seen "amazing replicas in blown glass of all the flowers and shrubs of this continent," and displays of quartz and crystal.

Tracing briefly the history of Harvard from its foundation in 1637, Dr. Underhill noted that women were first admitted to Radcliffe College in 1889 but that undergraduate lectures were taken separately, up until the last war. Even now, men and women write examinations in separate halls.

She was introduced by Mrs. T. G. Hatcher and thanked by Mrs. Hugh Bottrell.

The president, Mrs. M. F. Smith, was in the chair. Mrs. R. C. D. Stockill reported present membership as 160. Mrs. W. A. Falk and Miss Marie Riddell were named to take part in a debate with the Nanaimo Club at the end of May. Coffee was served by Mrs. W. G. Dempsey, assisted by Mrs. E. A. Benton, Mrs. K. S. Hurn, Mrs. J. R. Stone and Mrs. W. G. Welbourn.

'Norman Case' Hottest Federal Election Issue

Pearson Central Figure in Attack; Parliament Misled, Tories Charge

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — The government's handling of the "Norman case" is blowing up into a major election issue. In the centre of the political storm is Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs. He is the focal point for attacks by opposition groups and newspapers, anxious to see a government of a different political stripe in office at Ottawa.

Mr. Pearson is under attack on the grounds that he was not entirely frank with Parliament when discussing the events that led up to the suicide of Canada's ambassador to Egypt, E. Herbert Norman. The fact that Mr. Pearson is regarded by opposition groups as a possible successor to Prime Minister St. Laurent as Liberal leader, has of course, not been overlooked.

Liberals themselves admit that Mr. Pearson's statement in the Commons on the last day of the session and his replies to the persistent questions from Opposition benches, weakened the government's position and left it open to condemnation.

His disclosure that the late Mr. Norman had openly associated during university days with "persons who were thought to be Communists or who appeared to behave like Communists," started those in the Liberal as well as the Opposition benches a year ago.

Opposition Must Tread Carefully

The Opposition parties realize this and intend to raise the issue on the hustings—aiming at the Liberals and Mr. Pearson in particular for not giving Parliament the full information it should have had to properly assess the case. If in the process the polish of Mr. Pearson's prestige can be slightly tarnished, thereby reducing his popularity as a possible Liberal leader, so much the better as far as the opposition is concerned.

Opposition members are well aware that the issue is a "dangerous one." It could backfire on their parties if it appeared that they were condemning a man now dead. Undoubtedly Opposition speakers will avoid that aspect of the case and concentrate on Mr. Pearson's handling of the case.

Prime Minister St. Laurent at his press conference this week said he could not see how or why the case should be an issue in the election. In response to reporters' questions he said he believed the Norman incident now could be considered a "closed" issue. Not so the Opposition.

Opposition leader John Diefenbaker, opening his political campaign in the Martimes, said matters in "close connection" with the Norman case probably will become a major election issue.

"Parliament has been fooled on this issue. Above all else, Parliament must be able to rely on statements of ministers. That reliance has been seriously undermined in the Norman case and in others," Mr. Diefenbaker charged.

Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, minister of citizenship and immigration, was in Newfoundland this week, opening his campaign. At a press conference he declared that he did not expect the Norman case to become a campaign issue, but reluctantly he found himself discussing the matter in replying to reporters' questions.

Did Pickersgill Duck Question?

The Toronto Globe and Mail had a staff reporter, Clarke Davey, at Mr. Pickersgill's press conference. He reported that Mr. Pickersgill "ducked" a direct answer to the question of whether or not the Commons had received all the information about the Norman case to which it was entitled.

The reporter wrote: "Mr. Pickersgill said he was completely confident because Mr. Norman had been cleared by a security check and by External Affairs Minister Pearson, that nothing in his background or character represented a threat to the security of Canada."

"At the same time Mr. Pickersgill reaffirmed his belief that in present circumstances a man who openly associated with Communists would represent a danger to Canadian security."

The citizenship minister reportedly told his press conference that he could not recall even in his student days ever attending a Communist meeting.

Mr. Pickersgill stressed the need for taking a calm view of the Norman affair to prevent it from seriously damaging relations with the United States. This same view has been expressed more than once by Mr. Pearson. The external affairs minister cautioned Canadians against building the Norman case into an international incident and pointed out that only two or three Americans on the senate sub-committee had been responsible for the releasing of the confidential matter that preceded Mr. Norman taking his own life.

The Montreal Gazette, which supports the Progressive Conservatives, has had several editorials and columns this week dealing with the Norman case. It was not a satisfactory or convincing defence of his actions in the matter.

"The question arises why Mr. Pearson did not disclose all this much earlier in the case? Had he published the results of his investigation to Parliament and the nation in 1957 when the Washington charges were first aired, and nailed the lies specifically one by one, it is quite possible that the slanderers would have been deterred from pursuing the subject further. In any event Mr. Norman's good name would have been effectively cleared."

"One cannot avoid the suspicion that in this instance a distinguished public servant fell a victim of the St. Laurent government's policy of appeasing the U.S. at any price—to its unholy fear of having a real set-to with the U.S. government and stepping on important toes in Washington. Mr. Pearson needs to remember that his basic job is to protect the interests of Canada and Canadians against all comers."

The Progressive Conservative newspapers are not alone in Eastern Canada in attacking Mr. Pearson. The Montreal Daily Star in a lead editorial Monday under the heading "The Norman Case Develops Further" stated: "External Affairs Minister Pearson on Friday fell in to the error repeatedly made by the government of which he is a member—that of giving out essential facts piecemeal, thereby leaving the impression that the public is to be told only what, in the opinion of the cabinet, it is good for it to know."

The Montreal Star notes that Mr. Pearson hurried back to Ottawa from a campaign tour, to read a prepared statement to the House in which he disclosed that Mr. Norman had associated with persons thought to be Communists, in his student days. It noted that this information was at first withheld from Parliament.

"As things are now, people are left with the notion, erroneous though it may be, that there was, or perhaps even that there is, something to hide," The Montreal Star said. "Mr. Pearson thus gets the worst of every side of the argument."

"They (friends of Canada in the U.S.) must now have a feeling of uncertainty, or that further disclosures will be made which will weaken the strong case against the inquisitorial methods of senate inquiries. This is to be greatly regretted. If Mr. Pearson knows anything else which the public is properly entitled to know, he should say so just as quickly as possible," the Montreal Star commented.

There have been many letters to editors in the eastern press. They take both sides. Some letter writers condemn the Canadian government for not having "come clean" and disclosed all the facts in the Norman case at the outset. Others are bitter in their denunciation of the United States senate sub-committee for "slandering" the Canadian ambassador's good name.

An Ottawa columnist on the Montreal Gazette has just commenting on the Norman case. Its most recent was Wednesday when, under the heading, "Embarrassing Our Friends," it commented in a lead editorial, "The mishandling of the Norman case has had many grievous consequences. Among these must be reckoned the confusion it has caused to some of the best friends whom Canada has in the United States."

"Canada has had many of these friends in the Norman case. They have spoken out against the action taken by the senate's sub-committee in making allegations against Dr. Norman, which, on the word of the Canadian authorities, appeared to be quite unfounded."

"Under these circumstances, the friends of Canada in the U.S. rallied to condemn the senate's sub-committee for making charges about Dr. Norman's past associations that bore no relation whatever to the facts. Now, however, these good friends of Canada find themselves to have been, in some degree, misled."

The Toronto Globe and Mail, another paper that supports the Progressive Conservatives, in a lead editorial Monday, headed: "A Victim of Appeasement," stated: "Canadian anger over the tragic death of E. Herbert Norman has naturally centred on the privileged defamers of the U.S. senate's internal security sub-committee. The suspicion is widespread, however, that Canada's own external affairs department also has a heavy share of responsibility—that it did not defend Mr. Norman soon enough or vigorously enough."

"This feeling will be strengthened by Mr. Pearson's speech on the subject in the House of Com-

SIR ANTHONY TURNS DOWN PUBLIC AID

Eden's Doctor Non-Committal On Future—'Too Early to Tell'

BOSTON (AP)—The doctor who orated on Sir Anthony Eden, 59, said today "it is too early to determine the ultimate benefit that will be obtained from the operation."

Dr. Richard Cattell, who operated on Britain's former prime minister for a bile-duct obstruction last Saturday, also said in a morning bulletin that "it is impossible to predict whether there will be a recurrence of the obstruction." The full text of the bulletin:

"Sir Anthony Eden's present condition continues to be satisfactory. It is too early to determine the ultimate benefit that will be obtained from this operation."

"The cause of the recurrent fever, after freedom from symptoms for 3½ years following the previous operation, was due to narrowing of the duct in the right lobe of the liver."

"While the operation performed Eden's expenses."

to enlarge the duct offers a reasonable prospect of relief from attacks, it is impossible to predict whether there will be a recurrence of the obstruction."

Eden said through British consulate Wednesday that he does not want public collections to pay for his operation costs and hospitalization. His statement came after the London Daily Sketch launched a public collection to help defray

STANLEY CUP FINAL SHOWS TONIGHT ON C-2, 6 AT 10.15
DEAN MARTIN MAKES TV SOLO DEBUT FRIDAY AT 9 ON C-4

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor
OWING TO the fact that there will be no paper on Good Friday the column will forsake its customary format and deal only with program highlights covering tonight and Good Friday.
Detailed schedules covering this period and early Saturday will be found at the close of the highlights.

TONIGHT
8:00: Channel 4: Groucho Marx's This Is Your Life. Channel 11: In the Bob Cummings comedy Bob's budget is so severely hit by income tax that he decides to put in an economy budget for the entire family. Then he meets a lovely model.
8:30: Channel 2: Climax offers the excellent drama "Strange Sanctuary." A couple of bank robbers hold up in a convent in old California after one of them has been wounded.
Channels 11, 12: Climax stars Dane Clark and Anne Bancroft in "The Mad Bomber." A bomb addict is captured but the bomb threats continue to terrorize New York.

9:30: Channel 4: Ernie Ford hosts Jackie Cooper. Channel 11: Jack Carson, Carol Channing and Johnny Carson star in Playhouse 90's adaptation of the famous American comedy "Three Men on a Horse." A timid greeting-card poet has the uncanny knack of being able to pick winning horses. He falls in with three gangsters who see a fortune in the making. The trouble is, the poet can pick the tags only for fun and has never been to a horse race in his life.
10:00: Channel 4: Lux Theatre offers Vera Miles and Roger Moore in "The Taggart Light. The Nova Scotia lighthouse keeper keeps a strict eye on his niece. She becomes involved with love and, unfortunately, manslaughter.

10:15: Channels 2, 6: Filmed final Stanley Cup game. Montreal Canadians and Boston Bruins.
11:00: Channel 4: Easter program.

GOOD FRIDAY
5:30: Channels 2, 6: Easter film: "Which Shall Ye Have?"—the Passion Play as told by Barabbas.
7:00: Channel 4: Boxing: Holly Mims fights Jimmy Beecham in a 10-round middleweight contest at Miami Beach, Fla. Both fighters are unranked.
7:30: Channel 2: A documentary—Hannibal Crossing the Alps.
Channel 6: Norm Pringle's local TV House Party.
8:00: Channel 2: Easter film: "The Seven Joys of Mary."
8:30: Channel 5: Pat O'Brien stars in Crossroads "Riot," which is based on the true story of prison chaplain Father Patrick O'Neil.
9:00: Channel 4: Dinah Shore hosts another hour-long variety show that features such personalities as Dean Martin (in his first major TV appearance since his split with Jerry Lewis), Sally Forrest, comie Joe Bishop and a dance group called the Dunhills. High Wyatt Earp O'Brien will also be among those present.
9:30: Channels 2, 6: Easter film: "The Bitter Tree." Channel 11: Pat Crowley and John Forsythe star in "Girl With a Glow." A movie director sees a beautiful young woman while in a library.

PLANS and Specifications

with MATERIAL LIST and COMPLETE INSTRUCTIONS

BOAT OWNERS AND FISHERMEN!

This plan embodies all the advantages of fir plywood construction and is excellent for fishing on bays, lakes, or streams. It is relatively fast and holds four people comfortably.

It is sturdy with 3/8" marine grade Douglas fir plywood planking on sides and bottom. Yet it is easy to build as planking with plywood means a single panel forms each side with two panels covering the bottom.

As the initial step in preparing to build this plywood boat, make a thorough study of the plans, noting carefully the construction details at each station, and reviewing the materials listed in the fir plywood and lumber order.

Obtain the required plywood, lumber and other materials from your local retail lumber dealer.

Ex-Red Walsh Claims He 'Exposed' Norman

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says Pat Walsh, a one-time Communist, said today he was the undercover agent who in 1950 told the RCMP that Canadian diplomat Herbert Norman had been a member of the Canadian Communist party 10 years earlier.

(In Ottawa Wednesday night, External Affairs Minister Pearson said the RCMP later in 1950 had branded the agent's report as being a case of "mistaken identity or unfounded rumor by an unidentified sub-source.")

Mr. Walsh, since quitting the Communist party, has become secretary of an organization

'HOTTEST ISSUE'

known as the Pan-American Anti-Communist League.

The Telegram quotes Mr. Walsh as saying today: "Mistaken identity—rubbish. My report was the facts of the case. The second report was issued after the intervention of Pearson."

Mr. Walsh said information furnished by him to "my good friend" Robert Morris, counsel for the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee, was used by the sub-committee to bring charges of Communist associations against Mr. Norman. The newspaper quotes Mr. Walsh as saying he could not have been wrong in his identification of Mr. Norman, who committed suicide in Cairo. "I knew Norman personally as far back as 1936 and he was one of the few Canadians who could speak Chinese and Japanese. It was impossible for me to have mistaken him for someone else."

PEARSON REVEALS NEW INFORMATION

RCMP Retracted Norman Report—Case of 'Mistaken Identity'

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says the United States Senate internal security sub-committee used an unfounded RCMP report to brand Herbert Norman as a Communist.

He said Wednesday night that in October, 1950, the RCMP informed the appropriate U.S. security agencies it had a report from one of its secret agents mentioning Mr. Norman as a member of the Canadian Communist party in 1940.

But three months later the RCMP, after extensive inquiries, reported to the U.S. security agencies that its secret agent's information was a case of "mistaken identity or unfounded rumor by an unidentified sub-source" and it was therefore deleting the earlier reference to Mr. Norman being a Communist party member 10 years earlier.

Mr. Pearson said it was the original report which Robert Morris, sub-committee counsel, was using last March 12 when he referred to Mr. Norman as being identified as a Communist in February, 1940.

Question of Two Reports Puzzling

Though the original RCMP report was made public by Mr. Morris, the follow-up one denying the first was never released until Wednesday night. There was no indication in Mr. Pearson's statement that the sub-committee had possession of the second report as well as the original.

"How this original report became public we can only guess," Mr. Pearson said.

Last week in the Commons the minister said that as far as he knew no security information on Canadians supplied to the U.S. government had fallen into the hands of the sub-committee.

There was no explanation why Mr. Pearson or the government had not made public earlier the fact that an RCMP report had been employed by the sub-committee in charges of communism against Mr. Norman.

man, Canadian ambassador to Cairo who committed suicide April 4.

Nor was there any explanation why it had been decided to make the two reports public now.

Mr. Pearson's statements were included in a text of a telegram to the editor of the Montreal Gazette and issued by the external affairs department.

The statements take issue with comments written by Arthur Blakely, the Gazette's Ottawa correspondent.

Mr. Blakely asked at one point in his April 17 column:

"Why did Mr. Pearson try to create the impression last week that Mr. Norman's strange, ultra-leftwing associations had been confined to his student days, when Mr. Pearson must have known that such contacts were maintained as late as February, 1950?"

BLOOD-RED LAVA SPEWS FROM ANCIENT MT. ETNA

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—Mount Etna's central crater broke into explosive action today as blood-red lava continued to spill slowly from a new rupture above the Valley of the Lion on the barren side of the ancient peak.

For the time being, hamlets on Etna, far below the volcanic activity, were not in danger.

The current eruption is in the same zone as that of 1950 which spilled out millions of tons of lava and did not halt until it had reached the 600-foot level and destroyed and damaged roads and cultivated fields.

Gas Bombs Rout Paris Strikers

PARIS (CP)—A battle between striking rail and subway workers and police broke out today on the boulevard in front of the transport ministry. About 1,000 workers, members of the Communist-dominated Confederation Generale du Travail, assaulted police lines with stones and metal bars in an effort to break through to the ministry.

Police struck back with batons and showered the crowd with fire hoses and tear gas bombs. They rushed up reinforcements to disperse the strikers.

The workers went on a two-day strike Wednesday for higher wages. Some of the strikers were drifting back to their jobs today.

The clash was the first violence in the strike of rail, subway and bus employees which has slowed but hardly stopped normal business.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett revealed today he will confer with Premier Duplessis of Quebec Monday and Tuesday.

Secret Session At Toronto Drafts Election Platform

TORONTO (CP)—Social Credit party leaders in closed sessions today hammered out the party's campaign platform for the June 10 federal election.

Although public announcement was withheld until a mass rally here tonight, it was reported that one plank calls for pensions of $100 a month to Canadians aged 70. The present pension is $40 a month and it is scheduled to go to $46 July 1.

The platform was discussed at a morning meeting of the party's executive committee, headed by Solon Low, national leader. Other members of the committee include Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta, Rev. E. G. Hansell, SC national president, and several cabinet ministers in the Alberta and B.C. Social Credit governments.

The policies went before an afternoon meeting of the party's national council for final approval.

It was learned that Premier Bennett will leave here following today's meeting for a visit to Montreal Sunday and a talk with Quebec Premier Duplessis in Quebec City Monday and Tuesday.

SOME 400 delegates were in Toronto for the meetings. Attorney-General Bonner of B.C. will be chairman of the public rally tonight at Massey Hall.

The party held 15 or 265 seats in the House of Commons at dissolution—all in Alberta and B.C. It plans more than 160 candidates for the June 10 election.

'HISTORIC' SPEECH, SWANK BAND FOR TORONTO

Socreds Expecting 3,500 At Whoop-de-Do Tonight

Special to the Times

TORONTO—Social Credit's "On to Ottawa" campaign frankly doesn't know what to expect at its heralded eastern debut—the razzle-dazzle rally in Massey Hall tonight.

Premier Bennett, still polishing a speech he insists will be historic, expects the rally to convince eastern Canada the Socreds are a vital living party on their way to a government in Ottawa.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, leader of the eastern swing, optimistically called for an overflow crowd of 3,500 in staid Massey Hall (capacity 2,700) and said anything under capacity would be a defeat.

GOOD RESPONSE

Bonner agreed the rally would show Ontario the force of Social Credit and said he was impressed by the good response to the letter the party sent to Ontario businessmen.

This letter coupled an appeal for easier credit with the promise that increased home ownership would be a step away from Socialism.

It also took a backhand swipe at the Canada Council, a favorite whipping boy for the party. "Home ownership is a basic factor in the building of a national character—and character is at least as important as a national culture," the letter said.

SWANK BAND

Like the official party program that will be unveiled tonight, the entertainment has something for everyone.

Moxie Whitney's swank society orchestra will play and the featured singer will be Lorraine McAllister, who is equally at home with hillbilly or pop songs.

Also working hard on speeches are Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta and National Leader Solon Low.

Neither thought their rally message historic but predicted the meeting would put the Socreds on the Ontario map.

One thing tonight's rally will not introduce is a campaign song for the march to Ottawa. "We've been corny but not quite corny enough to have a song called "On to Ottawa," a party spokesman said.

Three days of press releases have left Toronto a bit baffled about just what the Socreds stand for.

All the party has stressed here so far is that it is alive.

Observers here believe that Premier Bennett is exercising a growing influence over the national Secred organization.

For example, he acted as "prompter" to national Secred leader Solon Low during a press conference Tuesday.

He has arranged that B.C. cabinet members will play leading roles in the party's drive for eastern Canadian votes, and the Secred federal election program has been drafted by Mr. Bonner under Mr. Bennett's supervision.

If Social Credit makes significant gains in the June 10 federal election, observers believe these quiet but obvious developments might put Mr. Bennett in a position to strive openly for Secred national leadership.

PEARSON BUNGLED

While Mr. Low said the Norman case will not be made a campaign issue, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi was telling an audience in Hamilton that Hon. Lester Pearson had bungled by "not telling the complete story."

Half-page advertisements have been appearing in newspapers here telling of the meeting tonight.

Where, asked reporters, are the campaign funds coming from?

Said Mr. Bennett: Rank and file Social Crediters, and business, too.

Big business too?

Both big and small, said Mr. Bennett.

2nd Courtenay Parent Charged With Keeping Child From School

COURTENAY — A Courtenay lawyer today is defending his wife on charges that their nine-year-old daughter has not been attending school as required under the Public Schools Act.

Appearing for Mrs. Susan Bertha Spinks is Nugent W. Spinks, her husband.

Charges were laid by School Board officials of District 71 that Nancy Spinks, an elementary school pupil here, had attended school only 74 days since last September.

Test date the prosecution is using is last March 5 when Nancy was absent.

The Spinks live on Arden Road, too far from the school for a child to walk, the defence claims, Mr. Spinks said he was ill on the date in question and could not drive Nancy.

Appearing for the Crown is H. S. MacIvor.

The hearing is before Magistrate John Ryland, who made a historic decision last week that if a child can be properly educated at home there is no obligation to send the child to a school. The act allows this loophole.

BIRDS GIVE BIRD TO 'DIRTY TRICK' Gull Majority Undismayed By Sonic Warfare Threat

By Times Seagull Editor

Victoria's seagull colony today turned an indifferent beak to threats of "sonic warfare" to drive them away from their natural habitat, viz. the garbage scows.

Of 82 gulls interviewed in a Times poll, only four expressed any real concern over a report received by city council public works committee Wednesday, suggesting loud-speakers be placed on the scows to broadcast seagull cries of alarm, thus scaring the birds away from the garbage.

The other 78 had various opinions of the plan. None thought it would be a real danger, although all agreed it had the earmarks of a "dirty trick."

To achieve a reasonable cross-section of opinion among the seagull population, interviews were conducted at the city garbage wharf; on one of the scows; at Jetty A, HMC Dockyard; at the government Jetty below HMCS Naden; and at Beacon Hill Park.

Least concerned of all were the Beacon Hill gulls.

"Garbage?" sniffed one, disdainfully. "Beneath my dignity. I'm strictly a bread-crumbs-and-small-bits-of-bacon-kind boy myself. And here in the park there is plenty of same."

Most of the Beacon Hill gulls, he explained, have long since retired from an active life as being the birds which are followed to Victoria.

"Our main vocation now is to pose for tourist snapshots," said the spokesman. "Naturally, in return we receive ample fare. I do not believe this city council plan would have any bearing on Beacon Hill gulls.

A seagull questioned at the city garbage wharf expressed scant interest in the plan.

"As I understand it, the city council will be asked to provide music on the garbage scows," he said.

"The music suggested is the seagull warning cry, which is, to a seagull, a most interesting chromatic exercise."

"However, I cannot see the need for this expense, as seagulls are quite capable of producing their own warning cries."

"But, not being a taxpayer, the matter doesn't concern me one way or the other."

The only note of indignation was sounded by a rather ancient seagull, a resident of these parts for many years, and the dean of the HMC Dockyard colony.

"There is base ingratitude here," he said. "Gull and fledgling, for high unto I don't know how many years I have been doing my part to keep the harbors clean. So have all the other gulls of my acquaintance. Now they are proposing to try to keep us off the garbage scows."

Even this ancient, and rather indignant, gull, refused to be worried. "It won't work," he said. "Seagulls are used to weird noises, being great hand at creating weird noises themselves."

One of the gulls interviewed said only: "Eh? What's that you say?"

He is a herring gull who is hard of hearing.

The three gulls actively worried about the project all had the same reason.

"When the city fathers find the seagull warning won't work," they said, "they may decide to play Elvis Presley recordings instead."

Quivering from beak to tail feather, they flew away.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — Mayor John Morrison wants this central British Columbia city's magistrate fired on grounds he has been too lenient with young hoodlums.

"The situation is so bad it demands a change," the mayor said in an interview today.

Mayor Morrison said assistant attorney-general Gilbert Hogg conducted an investigation here last week.

"We hope he'll recommend a change in magistrate," he added.

The mayor said the trouble has been caused by a "nucleus" of eight or 10 hoodlums with 40 or 50 followers who "regard them as heroes."

He said the magistrate, P. J. Moran, has been too lenient in dealing with the offenders.

Magistrate Moran, 73, admitted "we have a problem here" but said that if the crown feels his sentences are too lenient it can always appeal to a higher court.

One of the cases which enraged local citizens was that of a 19-year-old youth who has been convicted of burglary, two car thefts, liquor act infractions, assault and vagrancy.

He has paid token fines or drawn suspended sentences but has never spent a day in jail.

'Painless' Merger Sketched by Ash

No Municipality Would Assume Debt of Another, States Reeve

A "painless" plan for consolidation of Greater Victoria — with no municipality assuming the debt or debt charged by Saanich Reeve.

He told a joint meeting of Greater Victoria Lions Clubs, outlying municipalities fear they would be called upon to assume the debt of Victoria, in event of amalgamation.

These municipalities with sewers, drains and highways completed resist the idea of providing these services to other areas which are not so fully developed.

Solution, he said, would be for the municipalities to pool costly assets which cannot be liquidated — streets, sewers, sidewalks, street lighting and parks, the arena and the public library, to name a few.

These would be administered on a joint basis.

Reeve Ash pointed out that current municipal budgets in the whole Greater Victoria area are rising steadily while each municipality continues as a separate entity.

"Increased taxation has taken place each year for the past 10 years . . . and may I say, the end is not in sight."

Saanich, he felt was a prime example of mounting civic costs. Taxes are bound to jump at least two mills due to an increase ordered in the gross assessments.

"Frankly, we in Saanich have been living in a fool's paradise, and now our past is catching up with us."

The reeve added, the municipal board which brought about formation of a metropolitan area in Toronto expressed the opinion that complete amalgamation of that area would have been the wisest step.

The argument that taxes would be increased by amalgamation was disproved when Ottawa annexed surrounding areas. Except for the demand for local improvements, taxes would have been lower, the reeve said. (He is a former Ottawa alderman.)

Consolidation could be started by establishing a special intermunicipal committee in co-operation with the department of municipal affairs.

He has paid token fines or drawn suspended sentences but has never spent a day in jail.

Other members of the gang, all of whom have left school, have begun terrorizing school teachers.

Youth Induced Boys to Steal Goods for Him

A Victoria youth who induced a pair of juveniles to steal for him was sentenced to one day imprisonment and one year's rigid probation when he faced two charges of breaking, entering and theft in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday.

Victor Rowe, 18, 478 Gorge East, pleaded guilty to the charges laid after break-ins March 2 and March 23 at Bligh's Corner General Store, Metchoin.

Court was told Rowe acted as lookout while the two juveniles entered the store the first time to take small items of merchandise.

SUSPENDED

The second time Rowe again acted as lookout while one of the juveniles entered the premises.

Rowe was given a suspended sentence on the first charge and Magistrate A. I. Thomas imposed a stiff probation requirement.

On the second charge, being a second offence, the one day imprisonment was set.

Sentence was imposed after receipt of a probation report on Rowe.

"It is news to me," said Mr. Williston when told of a story published in the Toronto Star. "So many sawmills are closing now for no other reason than lack of business. I have not heard of any mill closing at Hudson Hope."

BEST BONSP IEL SNIPERS

Ack-Acks on Target With Sports Record

By GRAHAM COX

They have been doing it quietly, but a group of young men in Esquimalt have been going efficiently about the business of collecting provincial and Western Canada sports championships.

Feats of the athletes in question are usually camouflaged by a layer of khaki and they seldom appear in the more publicized sports leagues or events. They are members of an army unit — the 4th Light Anti-Aircraft Battery — stationed at Work Point Barracks.

However, they are up against strong competition in the various service leagues and their talents have been sufficient to keep the trophy case outside the unit quarter master's office well stocked with trophies.

TOP RINK

A curling rink from the unit competed with three other Army quartets at Vancouver last month in the annual Tri-Services Bonspiel against four-rink squads from the RCAF and Navy. The Army piled up the greatest number of points and the rink from the 4th "Ack-Ack" paced the victory by racking up the top individual total.

Gnr. Fred Kerr skipped the rink with Bdr. Ward Snyder tossing third rocks. Bdr. Tom Clifford playing second and L/Bdr. Jack Trefry holding down the lead spot. Handling the squad was Lieut. Lorne Kendall.

Out of a possible 100 points, the Work Point aggregation compiled 76 and was far out in front in the race for the trophy for the leading rink.

The whole battery is proud of their little man with the big fists.

Gunner B. A. Harrison is still in Kingston, Ont., where last week he challenged for the Canadian Army novice lightweight boxing crown.

LOSES DECISION

His victory skin came to an end at Kingston, but it took two bouts to drop him out of the running. He punched out a decision in his opening match and lost a close verdict in his second battle.

The eight-man volleyball team travelled a long road before adding its contribution to the trophy case.

It had to beat all other Army units in the area for a crack at the Navy team in the Island semi-final. Next step up the ladder was the Island final, when the Ack-Acks ran into stiff competition from Comox Air Force Base.

The title shot came April 5 at Sea Island when they met the Air Force again in the B.C. playdowns. This time it was easy for the tournament veterans and they took their opposition in three straight games for the title.

With these three major titles under their belts, it is not to be understood that this is all they do in the way of sports. They have regular bowling leagues and a red hot softball loop.

In addition there is a continuous small-bore shooting competition that produces many fine shots for the unit.

The small-arms group and the curling rinks are the only teams that presently compete with non-military teams. During the summer, the battery moves to Wainwright, Alberta, the summer training camp and takes part in track and field tests against the other units.

Last year the 200-man Victoria contingent placed second among all the others, which was no mean feat since it had to compete with overwhelming numbers from the other batteries, corps and companies.

Despite their record, the Ack-Acks believe bigger things are still to come and, under the leadership of their sports-minded commanding officer, Major W. W. Turner, they hope to burst the seams of that trophy case.

HERE'S HOW AND WHERE

Going Fishing Over Easter?

Mid-April days breed trout fever and unless the weather crosses us up, this weekend should bring the first large-scale invasion of Vancouver Island's inland waterways.

Although fishing hardly could be rated as better than fair in most trout spots, several places are due for some fast action as soon as we get enough sun to bring out a good hatch or boost the water temperature a few degrees.

But even if fishing is slow, you can always toss a worm-baited hook out in the water and lay back to enjoy the outdoor air while waiting for a float to bob under the water. Float fishing, incidentally, is producing some fair trout catches in some of the smaller lakes.

And you don't have to go far from Victoria for a chance to catch trout. It's mostly bait fishing or trolling, but there are fish coming out of Thetis, Prospect, Elk and Beaver Lakes and at Elk and Beaver there's a fair chance of hooking bass around the shoreline.

A bit further out, Shawigan and Kemp Lakes and Rogers (Dougan's) Lake are giving up some trout to trollers and fly-casters (try a yellow or orange-bodied fly). On Salt Spring Island, St. Mary's Lake is reported a poor bet for bass, but Cusheon Lake could be worth a try for trout.

If you're going a bit further, Cowichan River tapered off a bit with rising water, but is still one of the best producers with a few steelhead still in the stream and trout available from the headwaters to the mouth. Bottom fishing is giving the best results, although cutthroats are taking small spoons and silver-bodied flies in the lower reaches.

Trollers are scoring in Cowichan, Somenos and Quamichan Lakes and near Nanaimo, the gang troll is bringing in trout at Divers, Brannan, Quesnell and the Nanaimo Lakes.

There has been a good run of steelhead in the Nanaimo River, but reports suggest you skip the Koksilah and Chemainus Rivers.

The same reports say you'll have a good chance for trout in the Little Qualicum, Somass, Englishman's and Campbell Rivers.

Things sound fairly good in the Alberni District, where trout are coming out of Sproat, Great Central, Cameron, Summit and Dog Lakes and the Stamp, Sproat and Ash Rivers and cutthroats are around the mouths of all rivers.

If it is steelhead you want, the Salmon and San Juan Rivers should be worth a trip.

Bluebacks are still providing the most action for the salt-water fishing clan, but Sonny Gicas made some of the biggest news Wednesday morning when he landed a button-sized spring salmon at Saanich Inlet.

Fishing with T. Captain and W. Burger at MacKenzie Bay, Gicas hooked a 20-pounder on a Strip-Teaser used with 12 ounces of weight. The trio also had a seven-pounder and six bluebacks.

After a slow spell last week, the Inlet has been a hot spot for the past few days and limit catches of grise and small springs are being taken from all parts. Making things a bit more interesting is the fact that the blues started hitting bucktail flies again Tuesday afternoon.

Among the anglers who have taken limit catches this week are Mrs. Frank Nuttall, three successive days; Bob Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McTaggart and Mr. and Mrs. John Rose, two straight days; Jim Harper and J. Jamieson, Gordon Aaronson, Mr. and Mrs. Vince Reid, Ken Wringe, Al Rigler and Vic Humphries, who included a 15-pounder with his quota catch.

Another hot spot in the past week has been Arbutus Point off Maple Bay, where the blues have been grabbing bucktails, spoons and herring strip without any apparent preference. And they are still providing a good number of limit catches off Crofton.

Barons Thwart Billy's Amerks

CLEVELAND (AP)—A goal by Ken Hayden, his third of the game, won the American Hockey League's Calder Cup for the Cleveland Barons here Wednesday night as they defeated Billy Reay's Rochester Americans, 5-4, in a blazing double overtime contest before 9,505 fans.

The Barons, who entered the game leading the Americans three games to one in the best-of-seven series, captured the cup for the eighth time in the 21-year history of the circuit.

Centre Cal Stearns started the game winning play when he took a pass from defenceman Steve Kraftcheck at Barons end and started for the Rochester goal.

The American defence moved in at the blue line and he dropped the puck to Hayden who skated straight at goalie Bob Perreault and shot from 50 feet out.

Perreault, who had made 27 saves, dove for the puck but it skidded into the Rochester net.

BREAKS DEADLOCK
The winning goal came, in a sudden death overtime after two scoreless periods.

In the opening minutes of the game the Barons overwhelmed the Americans when Stearns scored at 6:37 and Hayden at 12:02.

With two Barons in the penalty box, Gordon Hannigan slammed a short shot past goalie Marcel Paille at 15:45 for the first Rochester score.

Less than a minute later, Earl Balfour broke away from the blue line and went in alone to score, tying the game 2-2.

Boxla Brass Puts Veto On Transfers
VANCOUVER (CP)—The Intercity Lacrosse League Commission has refused to approve transfer of two Vancouver players to other teams because it would endanger "the league's balance."

Defenceman Mario Crema and forward Bobby Marsh of Vancouver Pilseners had applied for transfer to New Westminster Salmonbellies and Nanaimo Timbermen respectively.

"We couldn't let too many veterans leave Vancouver," said league secretary Tom Gordon. "It would ruin the league's balance."

"Big Ben" Laughren, perennial strait swimmer, will take his 13th crack at Juan de Fuca's waters May 15. The beefy Victoria cook will leave from Port Angeles at 10 a.m., heading for Victoria. "I've got a good course and should make it," he said today. Navigator will be Dave McMillan. Frank Findlay's boat will be used and the swimmer will be accompanied in a rowboat by Jack Dames. Ben has been cooking aboard a tugboat for the past few months, and has been taking daily dips when the tug was moored. He'll start training in earnest next week, he said.

2 Seamen Freed In Knifing Case

CAPT. EDMUND MANNING... details, details...

Two of three British merchant seamen accused of stabbing unemployed welder Philip Walter Morgan, 33, early March 27, were acquitted in city police court today.

The third man, John Huartson, 18, Fleetwood, Lancs., who pleaded guilty to the charge last week, was remanded today to next Tuesday to permit completion of a probation report.

Found not guilty by Magistrate H. C. Hall were John Foulks, 23, Colwyn Bay, North Wales, and Brian Smith, 18, Liverpool.

All were seamen aboard the freighter Baron Incheape, which docked here March 26 and sailed a few days later for Trinidad. Foulks and Smith likely will be returned to England.

The magistrate said he was satisfied the two were endeavoring to restrain Morgan from assaulting Wayne Gilbert Quesnelle, 48½ Head, who had been out for a drive with Morgan's common-law wife, Shelby Galey, the night of the offence. "You and each of you were endeavoring to restrain him (Morgan) from doing so. I am satisfied that is what you did do..."

SATISFIED

"I am satisfied in my own mind you did not know Huartson had a knife... I find you not guilty."

Called Wednesday as a defence witness by lawyer Ken Murphy, Huartson said Smith and Foulks were helping Morgan to his feet after a scuffle with Quesnelle outside 1510 Belcher about 2 a.m.

He said he pulled out a hunting knife, purchased about four days earlier in Vancouver, and stabbed Morgan before he regained his feet.

Huartson said he put the knife away again quickly and was sure no one else had seen his action.

BEAT WOMAN

Huartson told the court Morgan first started to beat Mrs. Galey in the front of the car, where she and Quesnelle were sitting outside 1510 Belcher.

"We weren't going to sit by and watch the girl being beaten. We intervened to stop him hitting the girl."

Foulks, he said, grabbed Morgan and tried to pull him from the car. Quesnelle and Mrs. Galey both got out of the car and started to run away when the seamen told them they would prevent Morgan from assaulting the couple.

Morgan started to go after Quesnelle, Huartson said. "He started lashing about," after falling to his knees and the seamen went to help him up. "That's when I pulled the knife. I lost my temper and went haywire."

Smith and Foulks both swore they did not know Huartson had a knife and that it was about 10 days later, while the three were in custody, that they learned he had stabbed Morgan. On the stand today Foulks described the scuffle Morgan was attempting to have with Quesnelle, and the restraining action the three were taking.

SLIPPED AGAIN

"He (Morgan) slipped again, more or less down to his knees, and Smith and I let him go."

"He was still sort of lashing around... He got up and said 'I thought you were shipmates—buddies,' and then he got up and ran away."

The seamen and Morgan had met at a beer parlor that evening, drank in a club and then Morgan offered to take them to see "the lights." They went to 1510 Belcher where Mrs. Galey and Quesnelle were encountered in a parked car.

Morgan told Wednesday how he had run toward Jubilee Hospital, about two blocks away, when he realized he had been stabbed.

FOLLOWED HIM

Foulks and Huartson followed him and Smith was taken away in the car by Quesnelle and Mrs. Galey.

Morgan made it as far as a telephone booth at Richmond and Fort, where he tried to call for help, but collapsed.

Foulks said he and Huartson found Morgan and tried to help him by calling police, but the telephone in the booth was not working. He quoted Morgan as saying, before he passed out, "Help me you guys. I'm bleeding to death. I've been stabbed," and then he fell out of the booth.

"Smith said regarding the scuffle, 'He (Morgan) started lashing out. I got out of the road of his fists, then he took off down the road.'"

MONTE ROBERTS

This is to issue fair warning:

If you see a new, vigorous, bright eyed, square-shouldered Roberts striding about the streets of Victoria starting May 1, do not be surprised.

The new Roberts will be helping the Chiropractors' Association of B.C.

The Chiropractors have chosen May 1 to May 7 as National Correct Posture Week.

And I have been privileged to get an advance peek at some of the instructions issued by the chiropractors for Correct Posture Week.

Most important instructions appear to be: "STAND TALL, SIT TALL, SLEEP TALL."

That is, if you happen to be a tall man. Being on the short side myself, I am having a little trouble at the moment, but expect to be able to stand tall as soon as my new elevator shoes are delivered.

Sitting tall is no trick at all if you have had any practice on those high stools at, er, soda fountains.

As for sleeping tall, I am willing to try, but can't figure out how to stay awake so I can find out how tall I am asleep.

In addition to standing, sitting and sleeping tall, the chiropractors urge us to follow a few simple exercises daily, to preserve tone and strength of muscle supporting the spinal column.

I intend to follow this advice faithfully.

I would hate to have my spinal column sue my muscles for non-support.

Of course, the spinal column would first have to find the muscles.

"LEARN TO RELAX COMPLETELY."

On this I have already put in years of practice.

The only trouble is, when I relax completely, my spinal column resembles a stick of wet spaghetti.

Which is hard to reconcile with standing, sitting and sleeping tall.

But never fear. Come Correct Posture Week you will see the New Roberts.

Socred 'Ballyhoo' Rapped by Fairley

Social Credit may take a few seats from the CCF and Conservatives in the June election, but they won't take any from the Liberals, said Dr. F. T. Fairley, Liberal MP for Victoria, on his return from Ottawa today.

"They won't get anywhere in Ontario or Quebec," Dr. Fairley predicted. "Why, many people back there have never even heard of Social Credit. They don't know what it is all about."

Dr. Fairley referred to the Socred campaign meeting in Toronto tonight as "a big ballyhoo, American-type convention that won't cut any ice."

"It's just good entertainment—that's all. I watched Premier Bennett's arrival in Toronto over TV. What a show! But it won't get anywhere."

MORE SEATS

The 70-year-old member, a leading educationalist, is equally certain the Liberal government will increase its majority in the election.

"I don't think we have anything to worry about," he said. Dr. Fairley had a good word for B.C. Conservative members Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (Esquimalt—Saanchi) and E. Davie Fulton (Kamloops).

"Men of that calibre are not easily displaced. They are pretty solid in Ottawa, which is more than can be said for the Social Credit members."

Dr. Fairley will be in Vancouver Monday and Tuesday attending a Liberal meeting to organize for the federal election.

"After that we shall get down to some solid campaigning," he said. "The highlight, of course, will be Prime Minister St. Laurent's visit to B.C. next month."

Dr. Fairley hopes Mr. St. Laurent will make a major statement on the government's foreign policy when he addresses a big Liberal rally in the Royal Theatre Saturday May 4.

Vancouver Pair Plead Guilty To More Charges

Vancouver youths Donald Lloyd Davison, 18, and Stanley Lionel Deacon, 18, who pleaded guilty in city court Wednesday to four burglary charges, admitted to four more charges of breaking, entering and intent to steal when they appeared today.

First four charges followed their arrest atop a downtown hotel early Wednesday after loot totalling more than $3,200 was found on the hotel fire escape. Cash was found in their possession.

Four shops in the block bounded by Douglas, Broad, Yates and Johnson were entered overnight Tuesday, investigation showed.

The four new charges were for offences committed Sunday, when four other shops in the same block were reported entered, or attempts to enter had been made, but nothing stolen.

The new charges were for offences at Dick's Ladies' Wear, 1322 Douglas; Larry Wagner's News Depot, 1320 Douglas; O. H. Dorman Ltd., 1328 Douglas, and Tip Top Tailors Ltd., 648 Yates.

The pair was remanded to April 25 for a probation report.

TO HONOR CITIZENS Canadian Order Of Merit Asked by IODE

Canada, as a nation, should establish its own order of merit for bestowal on citizens whom the country desires to honor, it was decided at final session of the 44th annual meeting of Provincial Chapter, IODE, Wednesday afternoon in the Empress Hotel.

A resolution was passed to this effect, to be forwarded to National Chapter for presentation to the Canadian government.

The resolution suggested that designation of such an order of merit be made by non-partisan committees set up in each province to consider and recommend men and women who have performed outstanding public service, or have distinguished themselves in arts and professions.

THREE NAMES

It also stressed that the name of such a decoration be distinctly Canadian.

Three names were suggested, the "Order of the Maple Leaf"; the "Order of the Beaver"; or the "Canadian Order of Merit." Such an order would supplement those already bestowed by the British government.

A second resolution urged that Canada be requested to give to all blind adults, over the age of 18, a specific allowance, free from the means test, to take care of guiding and other expenses peculiar to blindness. The resolution urged that the government be petitioned for a cost of living bonus to cover the expenses incurred by blind persons.

Scout Investiture Definitely Set For Next Thursday

Queen Scout investiture ceremonies for 78 Boy Scouts "definitively" will be held here next Thursday, executive commissioner of Boy Scouts, Robert Milks, announced today.

The ceremonies were originally scheduled for Government House, which burned to the ground early Monday. New setting has not been chosen, Mr. Milks said.

Victorians who have volunteered to billet out-of-town scouts are asked to meet them at Thunderbird Park Wednesday between 5 and 5.30 p.m.

"That has been his custom in the past," Dr. Fairley said. "He usually talks on foreign policy when he comes to Victoria."

Referring to U.S. charges of Communism against the late Herbert Norman, Canadian ambassador to Egypt, who committed suicide earlier this month, Dr. Fairley said:

DISGRACEFUL

"It is a disgraceful thing that a Canadian official who has been cleared should have his name dragged in the mud. But there is no purpose in stirring up more mud."

"The Conservatives are doing no good by trying to pin the blame on the federal government. They would be wise to drop it."

Dr. Fairley won unanimous support last December as Liberal party candidate for Victoria in the June 10 election.

He won his seat in the last general election in 1953 by the second-best majority of all the Commons members.

Last year he went to New Delhi as Canadian delegate to the ninth general meeting of UNESCO.

This was a five-week conference of 80 member nations designed to further mutual understanding through scientific and cultural projects.

G. F. Dunn Named Vice-President Of Trade Group

G. Fitzpatrick (Pat) Dunn of Victoria was elected vice-president of the Pacific Northwest Trade Association at its annual meeting held at Portland, Ore., this week.

Arnold Webb, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who returned today from the meeting, said the PNAT convention was well attended by Victoria delegates.

Arising out of the convention, Mr. Webb said, was a decision to hold this fall a meeting of the staffs of the Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle Chambers of Commerce. The meeting will be held sometime in October.

"The three cities have common interests and problems," he said. "These will be discussed at the meeting."

Mr. Webb said both Canadian and U.S. delegates at the convention showed a growing concern for the maintenance of the forest production of the Pacific Northwest.

"Conservation measures to preserve our forests were stressed at the meeting," he said.

Date for the event was set Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the Sooke Community Association.

It will highlight the first day of the three-day All-Sooke celebrations.

The marathon will be open to all amateurs, regardless of age.

It is believed to be the longest organized run in this area.

22 TIMES AROUND THE HORN

Old Salt to Sail Air Waves to N.S.

By TONY DICKASON

The captain is sailing again Saturday.

But this time it will be by TCA, back to his home in Yarmouth, N.S.

Captain Edmund Manning, 94 on April 10, is still as straight as a mast, though perhaps today not quite as strong.

He is one of the few remaining salts from the romantic and rugged days of sailing ships.

White hair bobbing in reminiscence, and only occasionally prompted by his daughter, with whom he is staying here—Mrs. R. S. Evans, 3960 Cedar Hill Road—he recalled his half-century afloat which included nearly 35 years in sail.

When did you retire, captain?

"About 10 years ago," he said.

Said Mrs. Evans, "No, father, you retired almost 30 years ago..."

Retorted the captain with asperity, "details, details..."

Born in Bridgewater, N.S., he shipped out at the age of 16 on the Belvedere, Belfast-bound. At the age of 25 he got his master's ticket after serving in a half-dozen sailing vessels.

His first command was the Goudey, and he took her to the Far East. Later he commanded the Glasgow-built William T. Lewis, his first iron ship, a four-masted barque, and was with her 11 years.

Aboard with him much of this time were his wife and two daughters.

He was with the Lewis when she was torpedoed 150 miles off the coast of Ireland in the First World War, and was rescued by a passing Danish freighter.

The Lewis did not sink and Captain Manning later salvaged her. For this he received special commendation from the admiralty.

His last active decade afloat was in command of CNR vessels "from the smallest to the biggest." His last command was the Spinner, 10,000 tons, large for those days.

"I don't miss them now, it is so long ago," he said, trying to concentrate.

The captain has gone "around the Horn" 22 times. Approximate distance from Yarmouth and area by this route to Victoria is 18,000 miles. If the winds held fair, sailing vessels could make this in 120 days.

"But on one trip we were 32 days off the Horn, trying to buck the wind."

It will take Captain Manning just 15 hours flying time to reach home in this age of the Super Constellation.

City Powerless In Restriction On Store Hours

Sunday and evening sale of groceries by neighborhood stores will be illegal after July 1, but city aldermen agreed this morning they can do nothing about it.

Council finance committee reviewed a letter of protest from Independent Merchants' Co-operative Association. It was recommended the protest be made direct to the provincial government.

Under the new Municipal Act, which becomes effective July 1, all shops must close at 6 p.m. Council may authorize them to remain open until 9 p.m. one night a week. Steps are being taken now to permit opening on Wednesday afternoons until 6 p.m. for July and August.

EXEMPTIONS

Council also plans to take full advantage of the act where exemptions to the early closing are allowed for some products.

But the most "wide-open" by-law the city can pass will only permit night and Sunday sales of bakery products, drug store items, fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, soft drinks, dairy products, flowers and confectionery.

Purchases of frozen foods, canned groceries, and staples will be disallowed.

The blown rose design has a rather blurred effect, blending the rich colors to resemble watered silk. This polished cotton, tubable and fresh-looking, comes in many floral splash patterns, and is adaptable to your many style ideas for spring and summer. Have you seen the novelty baby-doll pyjamas of this type of material? Why not try making a pair? House dresses, house coats or afternoon dresses, with whirly skirts will be lovely in this very popular material. It comes in 36-inch widths and costs $1.69 a yard.

Ivy league colors and styles have invaded the women's departments and also children's departments, adding an interesting touch for skirts or Capri pants. Red, blue, gold or tan with black stripes make these shirts just the thing to wear with hard-wearing sports clothes.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

A Bride's Aversion to Showers: My stepdaughter has an aversion to "gimmie" parties for brides-to-be. She is to be married in six months, and many of her friends and relatives are already talking about showers. Although everyone knows of the engagement, her mother is planning a large reception to celebrate the engagement. The girl is alarmed that the invited guests will feel obligated to bring or send gifts. She has Louise Davis come to me for advice, which puts me in a peculiar position, so I am asking you for suggestions. The questions amount to: How can gifts be avoided?

Louise Davis answers:

It would help if the party were put in a different category than that of an engagement reception. The girl should plead with her mother, who should consider her wishes. It is up to her to take a firm stand right now before it is too late. An "at home" would lessen the sting of an engagement announcement reception. People wouldn't be so gift-minded. Another plan is that the mother issues invitations to an at home "to meet (the fiancé) Mr. William Baker," assuming that Mr. Baker hasn't met all of the bride's friends and relatives. Your stepdaughter should begin campaigning for the future by telling friends and relatives of the two families that she sincerely wishes that they would help her pass the word around that she prefers no showers whatsoever at any time. That doesn't mean no parties at all. It just means that if anyone wants to entertain, "Please see that it isn't a shower." Your stepdaughter is to be admired, so I say "Hooray for her!"

EASTER EGG COSTS $750

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Like everything else, the price of Easter eggs has come up. A Fort Worth woman recently paid what may be an all-time high price on the Easter egg market—$750—for a single egg that isn't even a real egg. It was made of plaster.

The buyer was Mrs. Clint Murchison, whose oilman husband is ranked among the nation's wealthiest men. She bought the egg at an auction for the benefit of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (Easter seal) held at a Dallas department store.

One saving thing about Mrs. Murchison's expensive egg—it was decorated by Walt Disney. The store sent the eggs to celebrities for decoration. George Apple, noted southwest cattle auctioneer from McKinney, Tex., auctioned the eggs.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For a couple of days I am letting you in on the mail which came from women in response to a letter I printed from a man who claimed to be the perfect housekeeper. He bemoaned the fact that women did not have their housework organized. These comments from readers will scratch an itch for many of you and also are amusing and interesting.

"I can see that the man who wrote the letter has no children. I could be well organized, too, if I kept my children fed and gagged and locked in the closet all day."

Another: "Perhaps when my children go to school I will have more time but until then no male efficiency expert is going to tell me I am disorganized. Pity the family which is so organized that there is never time for a smile, a laugh, a hug, or a spur-of-the-moment excursion." Again: "There is one point I would like to bring to this man's attention. We consider efficient housekeeping only one phase of our job. He didn't mention time to nurse a bruised knee or heart, or time for character building, or being a good listener about a hard day at the office or any of the little things which make a home."

Another: "Housekeeping is, in a way a business, and as such has its share of details. Again: 'Mr. X's letter on 'housekeeping' was so enjoyable that I made a special effort today to organize my work so there would be time to write this."

That is to say that in our household of six (plus one turtle, two mice and a small cricket), I have mentally piled up the areas of work and tagged them with the years I am likely to get to them. It brings me up to 1961.

"What I really admire about Mr. X is not his marvelous dispatchment but his detachment and his apparent calm and complete adjustment to his routine. When my head stops whirling I am going to try it, seven days a week."

Still another: "The gimmick, I believe, is outside stimulation. Business men would go stale, all day in the same room or house. One of the basic psychological needs is the need for

PEARSON REVEALS

RCMP Retracted
Report on Norman

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson says the United States Senate internal security sub-committee used an unfounded RCMP report to brand Herbert Norman as a Communist.
He said Wednesday night that in October, 1950, the RCMP informed the appropriate U.S. security agencies it had a report from one of its secret agents mentioning Mr. Norman as a member of the Canadian Communist party in 1940.

But three months later the RCMP, after extensive inquiries, retracted the U.S. security agencies' information was a case of "mistaken identity or unfounded rumor by an unidentified sub-source" and it was therefore deleting the earlier reference to Mr. Norman being a Communist party member 10 years earlier.
Mr. Pearson said it was the original report which Robert Morris, sub-committee counsel, was using last March 12 when he referred to Mr. Norman as being identified as a Communist in February, 1940.

Though the original RCMP report was made public by Mr. Morris, the follow-up one denying the first was never released until Wednesday night. There was no indication in Mr. Pearson's statement that the sub-

Suicides

SUFFIELD, Conn. (UP)—An accused wife-slayer and payroll bandit fought a gun duel with police today when he was trapped in a home and died after killing an FBI agent.

The body of suspect, Francis Kolakowski, 42, was found in the basement where he apparently had gone in an attempt to escape fear gas bombs, pumped into the home of John W. Slater, where he had barricaded himself. It was believed he shot himself to prevent capture.
FBI agent Richard Horan was found dead in the kitchen, where he was felled by a bullet as he invaded the upstairs after gaining entrance to the cellar of the home.
The battle raged for nearly an hour as Kolakowski tried desperately to fend off more than 50 officers who converged on the scene after receiving reports the killer-bandit had taken refuge in the house.

2nd Courtenay Parent Charged With Keeping Child From School

COURTENAY — Trial of a woman facing charges that her nine-year-old daughter had not been attending school as required under the Public Schools Act, was remanded by Magistrate John Ryland here today until May 2.

Charged with the offence is Mrs. Susan Spinks, wife of a Courtenay lawyer.
Her husband is defending her. Charges were laid by School Board officials of District 71 that Nancy Spinks, an elementary school pupil here, had attended school only 74 days since last September.

Test date the prosecution is using is last March 5 when Nancy was absent.
Mr. Spinks said he was ill on the date in question and could not appear.
Appearing for the crown is H. S. MacLynn.
Magistrate Ryland, who will hear the case, made an historic decision last week that if a child can be properly educated at home there is no obligation to send the child to a school. The act allows this loophole.

BIRDS GIVE BIRD TO 'DIRTY TRICK'

Gull Majority Undismayed
By Sonic Warfare Threat

By Times Seagull Editor
Victoria's seagull colony today turned an indifferent beak to threats of "sonic warfare" to drive them away from their natural habitat, viz., the garbage scows.

Of 82 gulls interviewed in a Times poll, only four expressed any real concern over a report received by city council public works committee Wednesday, suggesting loud-speakers be placed on the scows to broadcast seagull cries of alarm, thus scaring the birds away from the garbage.

The other 78 had various opinions of the plan. None thought it would be a real danger, although all agreed it had the earmarks of a "dirty trick."

To achieve a reasonable cross-section of opinion among speakers be placed on the scows to broadcast seagull cries of alarm, thus scaring the birds away from the garbage.

Seems th' seagulls will hev a choice when th' garbage scows git them new noise makers. It'll be soup or sonic.
If th' old 'uns git a hunderd a month th' young 'uns 'll hev 't git a hunderd a week 't be able 't afford th' taxes.

Secret Session
At Toronto Drafts
Election Platform

TORONTO (CP)—Social Credit party leaders in closed sessions today hammered out the party's campaign platform for the June 10 federal election.

Although public announcement was withheld until a mass rally here tonight, it was reported that one plank calls for pensions of $100 a month to Canadians at age 70. The present pension is $40 a month and it is scheduled to go to $46 July 1.

The platform was discussed at a morning meeting of the party's executive committee, headed by Solon Low, national leader. Other members of the committee include Premiers Bennett of British Columbia and Manning of Alberta, Rev. E. G. Hansell, SC national president, and several cabinet ministers in the Alberta and B.C. Social Credit governments.
The policies went before an afternoon meeting of the party's national council for final approval.

It was learned that Premier Bennett will leave here following today's meeting for a visit to Montreal Sunday and a talk with Quebec Premier Duplessis in Quebec City Monday and Tuesday.

BONNER CHAIRMAN

Some 400 delegates were in Toronto for the meetings. Attorney-General Bonner of B.C. will be chairman of the public rally tonight at Massey Hall. The party held 15 or the 265 seats in the House of Commons at dissolution—all in Alberta and B.C. It plans more than 160 candidates for the June 10 election.

Razzle, Dazzle Rally Scheduled Tonight

Special to the Times
TORONTO—Social Credit's "On to Ottawa" campaign frankly doesn't know what to expect at its heralded eastern debut—the razzle dazzle rally in Massey Hall tonight.

Premier Bennett, still polishing a speech he infests will be historic, expects the rally to convince eastern Canada the Socials are a vital living party on their way to a government in Ottawa.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, leader of the eastern wing, optimistically called for an overflow crowd of 3,500 in staid Massey Hall (capacity 2,700) and said anything under capacity would be a defeat.

GOOD RESPONSE
Bonner agreed the rally would show Ontario the force of Social Credit and said he was impressed by the good response to the letter the party sent to Ontario businessmen.

This letter coupled an appeal for easier credit with the promise that increased home ownership would be a step away from Socialism.

It also took a backhand swipe at the Canada Council, a favorite whipping boy for the party.

"Home ownership is a basic factor in the building of national character—and character is at least as important as a national culture," the letter said.

SWANK BAND

Like the official party program that will be unveiled tonight, the entertainment has something for everyone.

Moxie Whitney's swank society orchestra will play and the featured singer will be Lorraine McAllister, who is equally at home with hillbilly or pop songs. Also working hard on speeches are Premier E. C. Manning of have any bearing on Beacon Hill gulls."

A seagull questioned at the city garbage wharf expressed scant interest in the plan.

"As I understand it, the city council will be asked to provide music on the garbage scows," he said.

"The music suggested is the seagull warning cry, which is, to a seagull, a most interesting chromatic exercise."

"However, I cannot see the need for this expense, as seagulls are quite capable of producing their own warning cries."

"But, not being a taxpayer, the matter doesn't concern me one way or the other."

The only note of indignation was sounded by a rather ancient seagull, a resident of these parts for many years, and the dean of the HMC Dockyard colony.

"There is base ingratitude here," he said. "Gull and fledgling, for nigh unto I don't know-how-many years I have been doing my part to keep the harbors clean. So have all the other gulls of my acquaintance. Now they are proposing to try to keep us off the garbage scows."

Even this ancient, and rather indignant, gull, refused to be worried. "It won't work," he said. "Seagulls are used to weird noises, being great hand at creating weird noises themselves."

One of the gulls interviewed said only: "Eh? What's that you say?"

He is a herring gull who is hard of hearing.

The three gulls actively worried about the project all had the same reason.

"When the city fathers find the seagull warning won't work," they said, "they may decide to play Elvis Presley recordings instead."

Quivering from head to tail feather, they flew away.

'Painless' Merger Sketched by Ash

No Municipality Would Assume Debt of Another, States Reeve

A "painless" plan for consolidation of Greater Victoria—with no municipality assuming the debt or development of another—was charted by Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash Wednesday night.

He told a joint meeting of Greater Victoria Lions Clubs, outlying municipalities fear they would be called upon to assume the debt of Victoria, in event of amalgamation.

Those municipalities with sewers, drains and highways completed resist the idea of providing these services to other areas which are not so fully developed.

Solution, he said, would be for the municipalities to pool costly assets which cannot be liquidated—streets, sewers, sidewalks, street lighting and parks, the arena and the public library, to name a few.

These would be administered on a joint basis.

Reeve Ash pointed out that current municipal budgets in the whole Greater Victoria area are rising steadily while each municipality continues as a separate entity.

"Increased taxation has taken place each year for the past 10 years . . . and may I say, the end is not in sight."

Saanich, he felt was a prime example of mounting civic costs. Taxes are bound to jump at least two mills due to an increase ordered in the gross assessments.

"Frankly, we in Saanich have been living in a fool's paradise, and now our past is catching up with us."

The reeve added, the municipal board which brought about formation of a metropolitan area in Toronto expressed the opinion that complete amalgamation of that area would have been the wisest step.

The argument that taxes would be increased by amalgamation was disproved when Ottawa annexed surrounding areas. Except for the demand for local improvements, taxes would have been lower, the reeve said. (He is a former Ottawa alderman.)

Consolidation could be started by establishing a special intermunicipal committee in co-operation with the department of municipal affairs.

One of the cases which enraged local citizens was that of a 19-year-old youth who has been convicted of burglary, two car thefts, liquor act infractions, assault and vagrancy.

He has paid token fines or drawn suspended sentences but has never spent a day in jail.

CARRY KNIVES

Other members of the gang, all of whom have left school, have begun terrorizing school teachers.

"I can stand it no longer," said Lorne Downey, principal of the city's high school.

Youth Induced Boys to Steal Goods for Him

A Victoria youth who induced a pair of juveniles to steal for him was sentenced to one day imprisonment and one year's rigid probation when he faced two charges of breaking, entering and theft in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday.

Victor Rowe, 18, 478 Gorge East, pleaded guilty to the charges laid after break-ins March 2 and March 23 at Blich's Corner General Store, Metchosin.

Court was told Rowe acted as lookout while the two juveniles entered the store the first time to take small items of merchandise.

SUSPENDED

The second time Rowe again acted as lookout while one of the juveniles entered the premises.

Rowe was given a suspended sentence on the first charge and Magistrate A. I. Thomas imposed a stiff probation requirement.

On the second charge, being a second offence, the one day imprisonment was set.

Sentence was imposed after receipt of a probation report on Rowe.

... SOCREDS

Alberta and National Leader Solon Low.

Neither thought their rally message historic but predicted the meeting would put the Socreds on the Ontario map. One thing tonight's rally will not introduce is a campaign song for the march to Ottawa. "We've been corny but not quite corny enough to have a song called 'On to Ottawa,' a party spokesman said.

Three days of press releases have left Toronto a bit baffled about just what the Socreds stand for.

All the party has stressed here so far is that it is alive.

Observers here believe that Premier Bennett is exercising a growing influence over the national Socred organization.

For example, he acted as "prompter" to national Socred leader Solon Low during a press conference Tuesday.

He has arranged that B.C. cabinet members will play leading roles in the party's drive for eastern Canadian votes, and the Socred federal election program has been drafted by Mr. Bonner under Mr. Bennett's supervision.

If Social Credit makes significant gains in the June 10 federal election, observers believe these quiet but obvious developments might put Mr. Bennett in a position to strive openly for Socred national leadership.

PEARSON BUNGLED

While Mr. Low said the Norman case will not be made a campaign issue, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi was telling an audience in Hamilton that Hon. Lester Pearson had bungled by "not telling the complete story."

Half-page advertisements have been appearing in newspapers here telling of the meeting tonight.

Where, asked reporters, are the campaign funds coming from?

Said Mr. Bennett: Rank and file Social Crediters, and business, too.

Big business too?

Both big and small, said Mr. Bennett.

BLOOD-RED LAVA SPEWS FROM ANCIENT MT. ETNA

CATANIA, Sicily (AP)—Mount Etna's central crater broke into explosive action today as blood-red lava continued to spill slowly from a new rupture above the Valley of the Lion on the barren side of the ancient peak.

For the time being, hamlets on Etna, far below the volcanic activity, were not in danger.

The current eruption is in the same zone as that of 1950 which spilled out millions of tons of lava and did not halt until it had reached the 600-foot level and destroyed and damaged roads and cultivated fields.

There was no explanation why Mr. Pearson or the government had not made public earlier the fact that an RCMP report had been employed by the sub-committee in charges of communism against Mr. Norman, Canadian ambassador to Cairo who committed suicide April 4.

Nor was there any explanation why it had been decided to make the two reports public now.

Mr. Pearson's statements were included in a text of a telegram to the editor of the Montreal Gazette and issued by the external affairs department.

The statements take issue with comments written by Arthur Blakely, the Gazette's Ottawa correspondent.

Mr. Blakely asked at one point in his April 17 column:

"Why did Mr. Pearson try to create the impression last week that Mr. Norman's strange, ultra-leftwing associations had been confined to his student days, when Mr. Pearson must have known that such contacts were maintained as late as February, 1950?"

Mr. Pearson said this was a grave reflection on the reputation of Mr. Norman and on himself. He added:

"If I had indeed known, as charged, that Mr. Norman had 'strange ultra-leftwing associations' the inescapable inference is that they are Communist or that he was a Communist, as charged by Mr. Morris, while he was a foreign service officer of the government of Canada. I would be unworthy to be a minister of the Crown and should resign."

Mr. Blakely's statement, as well as Mr. Morris', are, however, completely untrue.

"I had no such knowledge at any time and the Canadian authorities, including the Canadian security authorities, knew of no contacts or actions by the late Mr. Norman while an officer of this department which could in any way be questioned from a security point of view."

Mr. Pearson said that if Mr. Blakely had evidence to support his assertion he should send it at once to the RCMP. If he had not, he owed a public apology to "the memory of a man now dead who served his country with loyalty and distinction for 16 long and difficult years."

Gas Bombs Rout Paris Strikers

PARIS (CP)—A battle between striking rail and subway workers and police broke out today on the boulevard in front of the transport ministry.

About 1,000 workers, members of the Communist-dominated Confederation Generale du Travail, assaulted police lines with stones and metal bars in an effort to break through to the ministry.

Police struck back with batons and showered the crowd with fire hoses and tear gas bombs. They rushed up reinforcements to disperse the strikers.

The workers went on a two-day strike Wednesday for higher wages. Some of the strikers were drifting back to their jobs today.

The clash was the first violence in the strike of rail, subway and bus employees which has slowed but hardly stopped normal business.

RCMP's Pat Byce Dies at Fairbridge

DUNCAN — RCMP Corporal Harold Kenneth (Pat) Byce of the Duncan detachment died at his home at Fairbridge early Wednesday.

A full RCMP funeral will be held Saturday from the Hirst funeral chapel.

The police detachment at the funeral will include a 12-man firing party, eight honorary bearers and six active pallbearers in addition to the NCO's in charge of the ceremony.

Corporal Byce was posted Dec. 25, 1956, for the 20-year RCMP long service award, and this would have been presented to him some time this year, in conjunction with a civic function.

Most of Corporal Byce's service was in Victoria, where he served on the Victoria detachment and also on sub-division headquarters staff prior to coming to Duncan in 1955.
